FOND OF YOUR COFFEE?

Of course you are—if it's good. But what a cross grainer it is to have your morning cup bitter and muddy. Makes you feel bad all day. Makes some people ugly, too.

A HAPPY SMILE

Sits on the face of users of our percolators. You see their morning cup come to them bright and clear and sparkling as spring water—and such a delicious aroma. None of it escaped from the coffee pot, it's all in the coffee. You smell your coffee when you drink it, not while it's making. Put a percolator on your breakfast table—'twill start you right every morning.

SHOULD BE PASSED TODAY.

Hale Urges Action on General Deficiency Appropriation Bill.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—The general deficiency appropriation bill, the last of the great supply measures of the government to be acted on by the Senate, was reported today by Mr. Hale, from the committee on appropriations. He said it would at once be printed, and he expressed the hope that it would be passed today, thus avoiding a night session. He added that the remaining time in which Congress will be in session will be needed for action on the many conference reports still to be considered.

"INHERENTLY UNREASONABLE."

Decision as to Railroad Rates in Spokane-Northern-Pacific Case.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—The railroad rate questions involved in the famous case of the city of Spokane, Washington, against the Northern Pacific and other railroads were held today by the Interstate Commerce Commission to be "inherently unreasonable." The decision says the eastern rates to Spokane are higher than to Seattle—a more distant point.

WHOLE SITUATION IS NOW CHANGED.

Time Here to Make Specialty of Latin America.

Landis Pleads, Also, for Building Up Merchant Marine.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—A strong plea for better trade relations with Latin-America and for the building up of a merchant marine was made in the House of Representatives today by Mr. Landis of Indiana. He declared that it would seem that there would have been a kinship in mutual hope and ambition which, he said, from the very start would have cemented social and business bonds with those countries which would forever have forestalled any or all European nations from gaining a primacy in the commercial affairs and general interests of the people to the south of the United States.

"But it has not worked out in this way," said Mr. Landis. He would not say that it was the fault of the Latin-American countries; on the contrary, it was a matter of record that on several occasions in years long past the strongest of those nations made overtures to the United States, which, if accepted, he said, would have worked wonders through the years that followed. "But there seemed to be an assumed loftiness on our party," as said, "a superlativeness which chilled and drove away those who should have been our most intimate neighbors and our most confidential friends."

Blaine, he said, saw the mistake and took the first step to rectify it. Harrison, Cleveland and McKinley followed "in a way, but not with any great enthusiasm." It remained, said Mr. Landis, for President Roosevelt and Secretary Root "to approach and surround and invest and inspire the situation so as to lift the Pan-American idea high up—so high up that the whole world is today eagerly watching whatever move we make to regain lost ground, and to effect an entrance into territory which not only have we neglected, but toward which we seem to have displayed a studied indifference."

Mr. Landis spoke of the approaching completion of the Panama Canal, and said that "unless we wake up it will be proportionately detrimental to us." The only hope of the United States winning by the canal, he said, "rests in our taking steps—immediate steps—to share in the coming progress and prosperity of Latin-America—to get into that broad and inviting market with energy and courage." In his judgment the time has come for the people of the United States to make a specialty of Latin-America.

"We want to make up our minds to get better acquainted," he said. "There is every evidence that such a determination on our part would be heartily reciprocated by the people of those 20 republics." Those 20 republics, he declared, are now carrying on one-third of the foreign trade of the Eastern hemisphere. The whole situation with reference to Latin-America has changed during the past decade, he maintained, "and that citizen of the United States who does not appreciate it is deaf, dumb and blind."

In speaking of the infrequence with which the American flag is seen on the high seas Mr. Landis declared that it is due to prejudice alone that subsidies have not been granted for the building up of the merchant marine. The American flag, he said, today is almost a stranger to every ship except the man-of-war, but, he said, "we are going to put it back on the sea. The manufacturers are going to help us put it back on the sea. The farmers, east and west, north and south, who have been misled, and who have more at stake than any other class of our people, they will learn the facts, prejudice will be dethroned, and they will help us put the American flag back upon the sea." The plain truth is, he said, that the people of the United States have been so busy with land-carrying among themselves that they have given little attention to sea-carrying between themselves and among other nations.

Mr. Landis presented numerous statistics on the subject, and said that the American tonnage today is 200,000 less than it was 100 years ago. "A respectable place to sleep," he said, "good food and government aid are the three things absolutely essential to put the American flag on the sea, and the sooner we recognize it the sooner we will have the American flag on the sea."

CONSIDERATION RETARDED.

Democrats Demanded Frequent Roll Calls on Penal Re-Codification.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Developments early today were unfavorable to the completion of the legislation for the re-codification of the penal laws. The conference report on the bill was laid before the Senate soon after it convened, at 10 o'clock, and the Democratic Senators showed a disposition to retard consideration. They disavowed all intention of filibustering, but made frequent demands for the calling of the roll. After considerable discussion the Vice President ordered the reading of the bill, which consists of 198 pages.

OVERSTREET EXPLAINS BILL.

Ship Subsidy in House, with Understanding Vote, Shall Be Taken.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—What is commonly known as the ship subsidy bill was taken up in the House today. An understanding was reached whereby four and a half hours should be devoted to debate, and at the end of that time a vote should be taken.

The principal features of the bill is the provision that American mail steamships of 16 knots or over, and of not less than 5,000 gross tons, shall be paid $1.60 a mile outward bound on route of 40,000 miles or upward, to South America, the Philippines, Asia and Australasia.

Mr. Overstreet of Indiana, in charge of the bill, explained its provisions. He was followed by Mr. Landis of Indiana, who made a plea for the passage of the bill.

JUDGE SUSTAINS DEFENSE'S MOTION.

Trial Proceeds on Theory of 36 Alledged Offences.

Argument on One Continuing Offence May be Heard Later.

CHICAGO, March 2.—Judge Anderson in the re-trial of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana today formally sustained the motion of the defense that the government proceed with the trial, on the theory that there were 26 alleged offences—that is, that each settlement on which an alleged rebate was paid constitutes a separate offence. Under the ruling it will be impossible to fine the company more than $720,000. Mr. Miller's motion to the effect that, if any, the offence was a single, continuing one, was overruled, although the court said he would hear argument on that point later, if desired.

With the jury complete and the legal decks for the time cleared for action, the case of the government against the oil company, on the charge of accepting rebates from the Chicago & Alton Railway, got under way today for the second time. Assistant United States District Attorney James H. Wilkerson, who was District Attorney Sims's chief aide in the first trial, began the presentation of the government's case.

This afternoon it was expected that the government's first witness would be called. He is H. S. Holland, chief rate clerk of the Chicago & Alton railway at the time the oil company shipped its product over the road from Whiting, Ind., to East St. Louis at the six-cent rate. Mr. Holland was one of the most important witnesses in the former trial. F. A. Wann, who was general freight agent of the Alton at the time of the alleged concessions, was to follow Mr. Holland on the stand. The next witness was expected to be Horace Tucker, chairman of the St. Louis-Chicago traffic bureau.

CONSIDERS IT A MONOPOLY.

Chicago University Professor a Juror in Standard Oil Re-Trial.

CHICAGO, March 2.—One of the jurors chosen in the re-trial of the Standard Oil case before Judge Anderson, says the Record-Herald, is Professor Frederick R. Dapprich, instructor in political economy at the University of Chicago. The professor was not questioned whether the donations given by John D. Rockefeller to the institution would affect his decision in the case. When asked if he considered the Standard Oil Company a monopoly he answered in the affirmative.

Before coming to Chicago he was professor of German at Notre Dame. He is also connected with an advertising agency.

EVANS'S SENTENCE REDUCED.

Rear Admiral's Son Loses Fifty Numbers and Receives Reprimand.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Upon the recommendation of Secretary Newberry, the President today reduced the sentence of Lieutenant Frank T. Evans, son of Rear Admiral Robley D. Evans, to a loss of 50 numbers and a reprimand. Lieutenant Evans was court-martialled for various offences while the Atlantic fleet was in the Philippine waters, and was sentenced to a loss of 150 numbers and a reprimand.

SPERRY'S FORMAL APPLICATION IN.

Schroeder Appointed Atlantic Fleet's Commander.

Potter Takes Schroeder's Place, and Barry Potter's.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Rear Admiral Charles S. Sperry today made formal application to be relieved from duty as commander-in-chief of the Atlantic battleship fleet, and Rear Admiral Seaton Schroeder has been appointed in his place. Admiral Sperry was tendered the presidency of the Naval War College, but declined the position, in getting his preference for sea duty there.

Rear Admiral Richard Wainwright

will remain in command of the Second division of the fleet; Rear Admiral William T. Potter is transferred from command of the Fourth division to command the Third division, formerly in charge of Rear Admiral Schroeder, and Rear Admiral Edward K. Barry, who has been supervisor of the naval auxiliaries at New York, has been appointed commander of the Fourth division.

Rear Admiral Seaton Schroeder, who has been appointed commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet to succeed Rear Admiral Charles S. Sperry, is well known in this vicinity, having for a number of years owned a summer residence at Jamestown, where his family have spent the summer and where he spent a portion of the year when his duties permitted. He was born in the District of Columbia and appointed to the Naval Academy from South Carolina in 1864. Graduating in 1868 he has had several naval service, serving on various ships on the Pacific, Asiatic and North Atlantic stations as an ensign, master and lieutenant, his first special duty being in connection with the hydrographic office at Washington in 1876. Following this he was on special service in the Mediterranean on board the Gettysburg, was again on duty at the hydrographic office, on the fish commission steamer Albatross, in the bureau of navigation, in the office of naval intelligence. He was in command of the Vesuvius on the North Atlantic station from June 1892 to June 1893, and was ordnance inspector at the Washington navy yard from October 1893 to December 1896, when he was ordered to the Massachusetts as executive officer, having been promoted to lieutenant commander in 1893.

During the Spanish American war he served on the Massachusetts and was promoted several numbers for his service in that contest. He was promoted to commander in 1899 and was on duty at the Washington navy yard from April of that year until July 1903 when he was ordered to duty as naval governor of the Island of Guam and made an enviable reputation as an executive officer under trying circumstances. Returning to this country in 1903 he was in May of that year appointed chief intelligence officer, holding that position until May 1906 when he assumed command of battleship Virginia, having been promoted to captain August 16, 1905. He was in command of that ship during the cruise of the Atlantic fleet around Cape Horn to San Francisco.

On the retirement of Rear Admiral Evans and the death of Rear Admiral Thomas, he was appointed to the command of the Second division of the fleet as acting rear admiral and was in July of last year made a full rear admiral, remaining second in command to Rear Admiral Sperry during the continued cruise of the ships across the Pacific, through the Indian ocean, the Suez canal and Mediterranean sea and across the Atlantic to Hampton Roads. He is junior in rank to Rear Admiral Conway H. Arnold, commanding the third squadron of the fleet, and the latter will probably be detached for other duties when his newer ships take the place of vessels which made the cruise. Rear Admiral Richard Wainwright, who has become second in command of the fleet, was promoted to his present rank on the same day as Admiral Schroeder, being one number his junior. Rear Admiral Schroeder will not be retired for age until August 11, 1911, and is not expected to fill out the remaining days of his active duty in command of the fleet.

LAW DEFECT TO BE REMEDIED.

Knox, Teller, Overstreet and Bonynge May Remain on Commission.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Senator Knox will not sever his connection with the Congressional monetary commission because of his transfer from the Senate to the State Department. Provision has been made, also, for the continuance of Senator Teller and Representatives Overstreet and Bonynge on the commission. The provision in the currency law of the last session creating the commission limited the membership to members of the two houses. The law apparently did not contemplate the possibility of the retirement of members of the commission, but the defect is to be remedied by a paragraph in the general deficiency appropriation bill, which is now in the final stages. That provision directs the payment of salaries to the retiring Senators and members of the House who are on the commission equal to those paid them in their present places, and this will insure the continuance of the services of the retiring Senator and members.

Senator Knox does not fall within the list of members to be thus remunerated, because of his prospective connection with the State Department, but it is not believed the restrictions of the law are such that they will stand in the way of the commission's employment of his services. It is believed the connection of the Secretary of State with the commission will be a substantial aid in gaining the confidence of this and other countries in the recommendations of this commission, when made.

DR. CRUM RESIGNS.

Charleston's Negro Collector Does Not Wish to Embarrass Taft.

CHARLESTON S. C., March 1.—With the resignation of Dr. William D. Crum as collector of customs at this port, to take effect March 4, a situation which threatened to cause President-elect Taft considerable embarrassment is avoided.

No appointment made by President Roosevelt has given rise to more discussion than that of Dr. Crum, whose appointment was vigorously opposed because he is a negro. A long and hard fight against his confirmation was made by Senator Tillman and others when he was first named in 1903, and within the last few weeks after his re-appointment Senator Tillman conducted a successful filibuster against his confirmation.

Dr. Crum says that no pressure has been brought upon him now to cause him to resign, but that he does so in part because he wishes to save Mr. Taft, for whom he entertains great respect, from any possible embarrassment as to his re-appointment, and chiefly because he feels that he has been especially identified with President Roosevelt's administration and wishes to retire with his chief.

JURY OUT 53 HOURS.

President of Pittsburg Common Council Found Guilty of Grafting.

PITTSBURG, March 1.—After the jury had been out for nearly 53 hours a verdict of guilty was returned late today against president of the common council William Brand and Councilmen John F. Klein and Joseph C. Wasson, charged with conspiracy. Former Bank President W. W. Ramsey, who was indicted jointly with them, was acquitted upon the orders of the court and the request of the district attorney.

The jury which had been out since Saturday morning, reported its inability to agree this morning, and asked that it be discharged, but Judge Robert Frazer refused and sent the men back to the jury room. A compromise apparently was agreed upon, with a verdict of guilty and a recommendation of mercy.

The three convicted men were charged with having conspired to obtain the passage of an ordinance for the paving of certain streets with wooden blocks, upon the payment of certain sums of money, by a detective, posing as a wood block contractor, and his assistants. Klein and Ramsey had already been convicted of bribery in individual cases. An appeal will be taken by the convicted men.

ADMIRAL SEBREE TO SUCCEED ADMIRAL SWINBURNE.

Secretary of the Navy Newberry yesterday announced that Rear Admiral W. T. Swinburne, commander-in-chief of the Pacific armored cruiser fleet, will be relieved June 1. He will be succeeded by Rear Admiral Uriel Sebree, commanding the second squadron, first division, of the Pacific fleet. Rear Admiral Raymond P. Rodgers, chief intelligence officer, will succeed Rear Admiral Sebree.

Captain Charles E. Vreeland, commanding battleship Kansas of the Atlantic fleet, will go to the office of naval intelligence, Washington, succeeding Rear Admiral Rogers as chief intelligence officer.

LAST ALIEN TO ENTER THE ARMY

Hereafter only citizens of this country can enlist in the United States army. Joseph Joseph. Joseph is the last alien to be taken as a recruit by Uncle Sam. He is a former Roumanian soldier. Immediately after he was sworn in by a recruiting officer, Joseph appeared at the federal naturalization bureau and took out his first papers. All existing vacancies having been filled in the army, under the new law only citizens will be eligible.

LAST DAYS OF CONGRESS.

Leaders Trying to Force Legislation Through.

Cleveland's Action—Old Time Filibustering—Diplomats and Rent—Dinner for Sherman.

[Washington correspondence of the News.]

WASHINGTON, March 1.—The closing days of a session of Congress are always interesting. On account of the wasting of time in the earlier weeks of a short session nearly all of the important appropriation bills are usually subjects of sharp differences between the Senate and House because disputed points are wrangled over in conference until not many days are left in which to get measures out of the way. Rarely does it happen that all of the business is finished up in time to enable the lawmakers to avoid running pretty much through the entire night before the Congress dies at noon March 4. You will always hear the leaders say that this is the year when it is absolutely necessary to put on more speed and clear the decks, but somehow they are hardly ever able to do it. It usually happens that when a President of the United States is to be inaugurated Congress will be found very much behind with its business. This makes it necessary for the executive head of the nation to go to the Capitol and be ready to sign or veto the belated measures. The bills cannot be taken to the White House in time to have him examine them and get them back to the Capitol and announce officially what has been done with them.

When Grover Cleveland was President the last time he served notice one session that he did not intend to go to the Capitol to look over the bills and that if they were not ready to be transmitted to the White House some of them would have to be lost in the shuffle. That had the effect of hurrying up the statesmen, and for once they managed to clear up the list so that there was no necessity even of having an all night session at the expiration of that Congress. But as a rule, the Presidents seem to recognize that it is their duty to be close at hand during the expiring hours of a Congress. As is well known, there is a beautiful room adjacent to the Senate chamber which is known as the President's room, and in there he stations himself to receive the last measures that are passed.

The rules of the House are so different now from what they were about 20 years ago that the managers of legislation, no matter which party is in control, can keep the business well in hand and prevent stubborn deadlocks such as were common prior to the time that the late Thomas B. Reed of Maine was elected speaker. At his dictation what the minority people call the "gag" was applied in fine fashion. The Democrats were in control during the next Congress, and, while they did not go to the lengths of their political opponents they retained enough of the drastic features of the Reed rules to break up the old time filibustering. Subsequently the Democrats lost control, and ever since the Republicans have been in the majority in the House. Year by year the Republicans have tightened the lines until even some of their own party men have been kicking as lively as the Democrats about the way they are held down. This rigid discipline, together with the power lodged in the rules committee, is responsible for the rapidity with which conference reports on appropriation and other belated bills are put through in the last days of the session.

One of the most bitter disappointments Senator Lodge of Massachusetts has had in recent years was the defeat of his amendment appropriating $100,000 for the purchase of a building in Paris for the use of the United States ambassador to France. Senator Hale lopped on the amendment, and it was voted down at his suggestion. It was not made a party question. Senators from the various sections united in expressing their opposition in spending money for this purpose. In vain did some argue that unless our government provides these buildings at the foreign capitals none but millionaires can afford to accept the higher offices in the diplomatic service.

Two days after he takes the oath of office as Vice President of the United States Hon. James Schoolcraft Sherman of New York will be the guest of honor at a notable dinner in Washington which is to be given by Representative J. Hampton Moore of Philadelphia. Mr. Moore is well known as the former president of the National League of Republican Clubs. At this dinner there have been invited to meet Mr. Sherman the Pennsylvania delegation in Congress, the members of the Gridiron club of Washington, the members of the Five o'clock club of Philadelphia and a number of the high government officials other than Senators and Representatives.

HIDDEN DANGERS.

Nature Gives Timely Warnings That No Newport Citizen Can Afford to Ignore.

DANGER SIGNAL NO. 1 comes from the kidney secretions. They will warn you when the kidneys are sick. Well kidneys excrete a clear, amber fluid. Sick kidneys send out a thin, pale and foamy, or a thick, red, ill-smelling urine, full of sediment and irregular of passage.

DANGER SIGNAL NO. 2 comes from the back. Back pains, dull and heavy or sharp and acute, tell you of sick kidneys and warn you of the approach of dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and cure them permanently. Here's Newport proof:

George C. Kanil, Cranston Ave., Newport, R. I., says: "I am not certain as to the cause of my kidney trouble but believe it was due to the impure drinking water. Some time ago I was attacked with a dull aching across the lower part of my back. The kidney secretions were scant and painful in passage and often caused me considerable annoyance during the night. When I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a box at Wright & Hay's drug store, and found relief upon using the contents. The one box effected a complete cure for which I am truly grateful."

"BLACK HORSE" TO ESCORT TAFT

Troop A of Cleveland Will Accompany Him in the Inaugural Procession.

Troop A, known as the "Black Horse" Troop, Cleveland's representative in the cavalry branch of the Ohio National Guard, will serve as personal escort to President Taft in his inaugural parade Thursday. Seventy-six men strong, it will ride with the carriage which contains the newly-sworn President from the Capitol to the White House, as it has done at every previous inauguration of an Ohio-born President.

Troop A was organized in 1877. The troop acted as personal escort to President Garfield at his inauguration, and in the fall of the same year escorted his body to Lakeview Cemetery. At the time of the Spanish war, Troop A became the nucleus of the First Regiment Ohio Volunteer Cavalry, and took the field.

Men of prominence in the state and nation have been members of Troop A. The late John Hay, Secretary of the State, was a member. All the mounts for the inaugural parade are black, matched for size and color. The troop wears a full-dress of special design, being similar to the uniform of the Tenth Hussars in the British service.

THE HEAVENS IN MARCH.

Taurus, the Brilliant Summer Constellation, Will Soon Set.

The Newly Discovered Comet is Recognized as Shining Principally by Its Own Light.

[Professor Eric Doolittle of University of Pennsylvania.]

The beautiful planet Saturn, which with its rings and numerous moons is always a most interesting object in the telescope, is rapidly leaving the evening sky. During the first week in March it may be seen setting almost exactly in the west point of the horizon, at about 7 o'clock, but the sun is steadily drawing nearer the planet, and April 3 will pass to the east of it; from this time until next autumn, Saturn will be a morning star.

The far more brilliant Jupiter is high up in the southeast, in the most favorable position of the entire year for observation. It reached its least distance from the earth at 2 P. M., February 28, and during the next few weeks will only very slowly recede from us. Its golden disc, encircled by rose-colored bands parallel to the planet's equator, and its wealth of finer markings, which are brought into view, one after the other, as this great world turns rapidly on its axis, form the most beautiful object for study of all the planets.

None of the bright winter constellations has yet left the evening sky, although toward the close of the month the brilliant Taurus will begin to set, but low down in the east the first of the faint summer constellations may be seen just beginning to appear. This is the Virgin, which closely follows the brilliant Leo; by next July, Leo, which is the last of the winter constellations to linger with us, will sink from view in the west, and the whole southern sky will then be covered with the faint summer stars.

During this month the possessor of a small telescope should hunt for the two faint little planets, Neptune and Uranus. The first of these is in the constellation of the Twins, between the stars A and B of Figure 1. If the observer will point his telescope at the star B, move it upward until it points to nearly the height of the star A, and then wait 3 minutes and 40 seconds, the planet will drift into his field of view. If a mounted telescope is not available he can readily find it with the help of Figure 2. In a small telescope the planet will not show a disc, for as seen by us it looks no larger than a five-cent piece would if held up a mile away, but it has not the same appearance as the stars which are near it. It will be seen as a dull, greenish star of magnitude seven and one half, contrasting strongly in color with the two red stars C and D, Figure 2.

So remote is this great world that the sun viewed from it would appear as an intensely bright star, showing no disc to the eye. Our own world and the three other planets nearest the sun would be so minute and so lost in the sun's rays as to be hopelessly invisible.

Fig. 4. Photograph of the new comet showing the great clouds of radiant matter at A, B and C which are being driven away from the head.

Two-thirds as far away as Neptune and yet 1,800,000,000 of miles from the sun is its sister planet, Uranus. The two worlds are strikingly similar, each slightly more than 30,000 miles in diameter, each very much less dense than the earth, and both of them probably still very hot and in a vaporized condition. As Uranus is so much nearer to us it appears much the brighter, and is clearly visible to the eye under favorable conditions as a greenish sixth magnitude star.

Throughout the month, Uranus is near the planet Mars, which is seen shining out in the southeast for two or three hours before sunrise. It will be most easily found on the morning of the twenty-sixth or twenty-seventh, for in the afternoon of March 26 Mars, in its eastward motion, will pass exactly below the outer planet, at which time they will be separated by a distance only very slightly greater than half the apparent diameter of the moon.

Though Neptune is so enormously distant from the sun that it requires 165 years to pass once around its orbit it has many times been suspected that there may be one or even more great worlds so far away that their years are thousands of times as long as ours. The possible existence of such a body has been inferred from two different facts, of which the first is the position of the paths of certain comets, and the second is a possible disturbance of the motion of the planet Uranus.

It is well known that when a comet passes near a planet the pull of the latter body may cause the comet to move in an entirely new path, and when this occurs both the point of the new path which lies farthest from the sun and also the point in which the comet passes through the plane of the planet's orbit will lie near the orbit of the disturbing planet. Thus, in Figure 3 there are drawn the paths of several comets which have been disturbed in this way by the planet Jupiter. The points marked B are those in which the comet moves through the plane of Jupiter's orbit, and it will be noticed from the points B and A all lie not far from the path M. N. of Jupiter itself. There are 30 comets connected with Jupiter in this way, two with Saturn, three with Uranus, six with Neptune, and a few others whose greatest distance from the sun is about twice that of Neptune. It is these last which are assumed to have been disturbed by a hitherto undiscovered planet.

If a new planet exists, its pull must slightly disturb the motions of Uranus and Neptune. About 20 years ago evidence of such a disturbance was suspected with the former planet, and the new body was carefully searched for with the great telescope at Washington. We cannot be certain that such a disturbance exists until the pull of each of the known planets of the solar system has been determined and allowed for; when this has been done the prediction of the position of the disturbing body among the stars is a comparatively simple matter, if it exists, which is as yet by no means certain. It will probably be discovered by photography. It has been suggested that this far-distant world, revolving slowly and majestically around the sun, shall be named Chronos, the time-keeper.

Of this body hundreds of photographs have been secured, showing an almost continuous history of its wonderful changes in form and structure. It is hoped that when these have been carefully studied our knowledge of the nature of comets may be greatly advanced. Already it is recognized that this comet shines principally by its own light, although, doubtless composed of an immense swarm of small particles, there are few of these which are dark until lit up by the light of the sun. Another most interesting result is that though great clouds of radiant matter were driven off from the head of the comet, their motion was very probably not due to light pressure, as has been quite generally believed, because their velocity did not increase as they receded, but actually seemed to slightly diminish. It seems probable that the wonderful repulsive forces whose action forms the tails of comets are electrical in character.

This is the best time of the year for observing that faint, mysterious pyramid of light, which extends upward from the Western horizon after the sun has fully set. It cannot be seen except when the sky is very clear and the moon absent; the observer should therefore look for it during the second and third weeks of the month. It is probable that this light is sunlight reflected from a great lens-shaped swarm of little particles which surround the sun and extend beyond the orbit of the earth, but there are also several other theories in regard to it.

COMMANDER SIMS PRAISED.

Roosevelt Declares Officer's Services to Navy Demand Emphatic Recognition.

By way of tribute for the signal service rendered by Commander Sims, the new commander of battleship Minnesota, the President has sent a special memorandum on the subject to Secretary Newberry. The memorandum says:

"The President wishes it to be distinctly understood that the navy regulations were not changed or amended in order to enable him to appoint Commander Sims, late inspector of target practice, to command the battleship Minnesota.

"The President simply desires, before leaving office, to make practical recognition of Commander Sim's really invaluable services during the past seven years in building up a system of gunnery in the United States navy which has won for our seamen a unique and enviable reputation as marksmen; which has made possible a rapidity of hitting at long ranges hitherto undreamed of and which in every essential that obtains for success in time of war has enormously increased our fighting efficiency as a sea power.

"I am informed by officers, in whose judgment I have confidence, including Admiral Wainwright, that our fighting power is now at least five times greater than it was before our training was improved by Commander Sims's methods.

"Within the last year our rapidity of hitting increased more than 100 per cent. In addition to this, his specialty, he has been largely instrumental, by his recommendations improving the design of our men-of-war, particularly in bringing about the definite adoption of our new type of all-big-gun battleships, through the conclusive arguments presented by him in various papers on the subject. I regard him as having rendered to the United States navy services of such signal value that it is my duty to recognize them in emphatic fashion.

"Please file this with Commander Sims's record."

PERSONALS.

....Emmanuel Poire, better known under his pen name of Caran d'Ache, the famous comic artist and cartoonist, is dead.

....Toufu Pu of Wu Chengh Sien, China, has been elected to Phi Beta Kappa at Cornell. It is the first time a Chinaman was ever elected to this high honorary society at Cornell.

....Professor Charles M. Spofford, head of the civil engineering department of the Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute, has been chosen by the corporation of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology to head the Massachusetts Institute's civil engineering department. He succeeds Professor George F. Swain, who resigned to accept a professorship in the Harvard Graduate School of Applied Science.

....Improvement is reported in the condition of Mrs. Babcock, mother-in-law of Vice President-elect Sherman, who has been a patient in Central Carolina Hospital, at Sanford, N. C., since she was taken from a train last Monday night while en route to Washington. It is reported that she may be able to resume her journey in time to attend the inauguration ceremonies. Mrs. Sherman is now at her mother's bedside, and will accompany her to Washington as soon as she is able to travel.

....As President Roosevelt is not expected to reach Oyster Bay until 11:30 o'clock at night Thursday, it has been decided not to proceed with plans for a formal reception including speech-making. A hearty welcome for Mr. Roosevelt at the railroad, however, will not be lacking. The young men of the village plan to have big bonfires blazing when Mr. Roosevelt arrives, and it is expected that the residences throughout the village will be illuminated.

....Count Kalman de Csaky Koroszeih and Andorjan of Hungary, the third cousin of Count Szechenyi, who married Gladys Vanderbilt, within 10 days will wed Mrs Howard Bryan, formerly of Portland, Ore., and now living at the Rochelle apartments. The wedding will be the culmination of a courtship of five months. The count is the son of Count Rudolph Csaky of Syrnes. He was born in Budapest in 1877, and was educated in the military academy in that city and later became a lieutenant in the Hungarian Hussars. The count has been married. His wife was Marianne, daughter of Herr Wolfgang von Szell, president of the senate of Debreczin, Hungary, but the marriage was an unhappy one, and the couple separated by mutual consent. Later a divorce was granted, and she married Jan Kubelik, the violinist, whom she met at Debreczin.

EVENING.

[William Griffith, in Hampton's Magazine.]

There is only a star in the sky;
On the wandering waters the breeze
Dies away in the ghost of a sigh

Over meadow and marsh comes the cheep
Of the frog—and a dream in the trees
Are the wren and the robin asleep.

Now rises the moon like a frail
Floating bubble just over the hill,
At the far keening call of the quail.

All the dark brooding forest is still,
Save the aspen so shyly astir,
Or the hidden and hesitant rill.

Then the moon slowly wanes, and the gray
Forest deepens as softly as night,
And the rivulet dreams on its way.

This Morning's News.

LAW DEFECT TO BE REMEDIED.

Knox, Teller, Overstreet and Bonynge May Remain on Commission.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Senator Knox will not sever his connection with the Congressional monetary commission because of his transfer from the Senate to the State Department. Provision has been made, also, for the continuance of Senator Teller and Representatives Overstreet and Bonynge on the commission. The provision in the currency law of the last session creating the commission limited the membership to members of the two houses. The law apparently did not contemplate the possibility of the retirement of members of the commission, but the defect is to be remedied by a paragraph in the general deficiency appropriation bill, which is now in the final stages. That provision directs the payment of salaries to the retiring Senators and members of the House who are on the commission equal to those paid them in their present places, and this will insure the continuance of the services of the retiring Senator and members.

Senator Knox does not fall within the list of members to be thus remunerated, because of his prospective connection with the State Department, but it is not believed the restrictions of the law are such that they will stand in the way of the commission's employment of his services. It is believed the connection of the Secretary of State with the commission will be a substantial aid in gaining the confidence of this and other countries in the recommendations of this commission when made.

ARKANSAS MAY BE "DRY."

Demonstration Forces Adjournment of House After Passage of Bill.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 1.—The Gann bill, providing for statutory state-wide prohibition, passed the house today by a vote of 53 to 27. The passage of the bill was followed by demonstration by the numerous spectators. So great was the confusion that the house adjourned.

DR. CRUM RESIGNS.

Charleston's Negro Collector Does Not Wish to Embarrass Taft.

CHARLESTON S. C., March 1.—With the resignation of Dr. William D. Crum as collector of customs at this port, to take effect March 4, a situation which threatened to cause President-elect Taft considerable embarrassment is avoided.

No appointment made by President Roosevelt has given rise to more discussion than that of Dr. Crum, whose appointment was vigorously opposed because he is a negro. A long and hard fight against his confirmation was made by Senator Tillman and others when he was first named in 1903, and within the last few weeks after his re-appointment Senator Tillman conducted a successful filibuster against his confirmation.

Dr. Crum says that no pressure has been brought upon him now to cause him to resign, but that he does so in part because he wishes to save Mr. Taft, for whom he entertains great respect, from any possible embarrassment as to his re-appointment, and chiefly because he feels that he has been especially identified with President Roosevelt's administration and wishes to retire with his chief.

JURY OUT 53 HOURS.

President of Pittsburg Common Council Found Guilty of Grafting.

PITTSBURG, March 1.—After the jury had been out for nearly 53 hours a verdict of guilty was returned late today against president of the common council William Brand and Councilmen John F. Klein and Joseph C. Wasson, charged with conspiracy. Former Bank President W. W. Ramsey, who was indicted jointly with them, was acquitted upon the orders of the court and the request of the district attorney.

The jury which had been out since Saturday morning, reported its inability to agree this morning, and asked that it be discharged, but Judge Robert Frazer refused and sent the men back to the jury room. A compromise apparently was agreed upon, with a verdict of guilty and a recommendation of mercy.

The three convicted men were charged with having conspired to obtain the passage of an ordinance for the paving of certain streets with wooden blocks, upon the payment of certain sums of money, by a detective, posing as a wood block contractor, and his assistants, Klein and Ramsey had already been convicted of bribery in individual cases. An appeal will be taken by the convicted men.

ADMIRAL SEBREE TO SUCCEED ADMIRAL SWINBURNE

Secretary of the Navy Newberry yesterday announced that Rear Admiral W. T. Swinburne, commander-in-chief of the Pacific armored cruiser fleet, will be relieved June 1. He will be succeeded by Rear Admiral Urial Sebree, commanding the second squadron, first division, of the Pacific fleet. Rear Admiral Raymond P. Rodgers, chief intelligence officer, will succeed Rear Admiral Sebree.

Captain Charles E. Vreeland, commanding battleship Kansas of the Atlantic fleet, will go to the office of naval intelligence, Washington, succeeding Rear Admiral Rogers as chief intelligence officer.

LAST ALIEN TO ENTER THE ARMY.

Hereafter only citizens of this country can enlist in the United States army. Joseph Joseph Joseph is the last alien to be taken as a recruit by Uncle Sam. He is a former Roumanian soldier. Immediately after he was sworn in by a recruiting officer, Joseph appeared at the federal naturalization bureau and took out his first papers. All existing vacancies having been filled in the army, under the new law only citizens will be eligible.

LAST DAYS OF CONGRESS.

Leaders Trying to Force Legislation Through.

Cleveland's Action—Old Time Filibustering—Diplomats and Rent—Dinner for Sherman.

[Washington correspondence of the News.]

WASHINGTON, March 1.—The closing days of a session of Congress are always interesting. On account of the wasting of time in the earlier weeks of a short session nearly all of the important appropriation bills are usually subjects of sharp differences between the Senate and House because disputed points are wrangled over in conference until not many days are left in which to get measures out of the way. Rarely does it happen that all of the business is finished up in time to enable the lawmakers to avoid running pretty much through the entire night before the Congress dies at noon March 4. You will always hear the leaders say that this is the year when it is absolutely necessary to put on more speed and clear the decks, but somehow they are hardly ever able to do it. It usually happens that when a President of the United States is to be inaugurated Congress will be found very much behind with its business. This makes it necessary for the executive head of the nation to go to the Capitol and be ready to sign or veto the belated measures. The bills cannot be taken to the White House in time to have him examine them and get them back to the Capitol and announce officially what has been done with them.

When Grover Cleveland was President the first time he served notice one session that he did not intend to go to the Capitol to look over the bills and that if they were not ready to be transmitted to the White House some of them would have to be lost in the shuffle. That had the effect of hurrying up the statesmen, and for once they managed to clear up the list so that there was no necessity even of having an all night session at the expiration of that Congress. But as a rule, the Presidents seem to recognize that it is their duty to be close at hand during the expiring hours of a Congress. As is well known, there is a beautiful room adjacent to the Senate chamber which is known as the President's room, and in there he stations himself to receive the last measures that are passed.

The rules of the House are so different now from what they were about 20 years ago that the managers of legislation, no matter which party is in control, can keep the business well in hand and prevent stubborn deadlocks such as were common prior to the time that the late Thomas B. Reed of Maine was elected speaker. At his dictation what the minority people call the "gag" was applied in fine fashion. The Democrats were in control during the next Congress, and, while they did not go to the lengths of their political opponents they retained enough of the drastic features of the Reed rules to break up the old time filibustering. Subsequently the Democrats lost control, and ever since the Republicans have been in the majority in the House. Year by year the Republicans have tightened the lines until even some of their own party men have been kicking as lively as the Democrats about the way they are held down. This rigid discipline, together with the power lodged in the rules committee, is responsible for the rapidity with which conference reports on appropriation and other belated bills are put through in the last days of the session.

One of the most bitter disappointments Senator Lodge of Massachusetts has had in recent years was the defeat of his amendment appropriating $400,000 for the purchase of a building in Paris for the use of the United States ambassador to France. Senator Hale hopped on the amendment, and it was voted down at his suggestion. It was not made a party question. Senators from the various sections united in expressing their opposition in spending money for this purpose. In vain did some argue that unless our government provides these buildings at the foreign capitals none but millionaires can afford to accept the higher offices in the diplomatic service.

Two days after he takes the oath of office as Vice President of the United States Hon. James Schoolcraft Sherman of New York will be the guest of honor at a notable dinner in Washington which is to be given by Representative J. Hampton Moore of Philadelphia. Mr. Moore is well known as the former president of the National League of Republican Clubs. At this dinner there have been invited to meet Mr. Sherman the Pennsylvania delegation in Congress, the members of the Gridiron club of Washington, the members of the Five o'clock club of Philadelphia and a number of the high government officials other than Senators and Representatives.

HIDDEN DANGERS.

Nature Gives Timely Warnings That No Newport Citizen Can Afford to Ignore.

DANGER SIGNAL NO. 1 comes from the kidney secretions. They will warn you when the kidneys are sick. Well kidneys excrete a clear, amber fluid. Sick kidneys send out a thin, pale and foamy, or a thick, red, ill-smelling urine, full of sediment and irregular of passage.

DANGER SIGNAL NO. 2 comes from the back. Back pains, dull and heavy, or sharp and acute, tell you of sick kidneys and warn you of the approach of dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and cure them permanently. Here's Newport proof:

George C. Kauli, Cranston Ave., Newport, R. I., says: "I am not certain as to the cause of my kidney trouble but believe it was due to the impure drinking water. Some time ago I was attacked with a dull aching across the lower part of my back. The kidney secretions were scant and painful in passage and often caused me considerable annoyance during the night. When I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills I procured a box at Wright & Hay's drug store, and found relief upon using the contents. The second box effected a complete cure for which I am truly grateful."

"BLACK HORSE" TO ESCORT TAFT

Troop A of Cleveland Will Accompany Him in the Inaugural Procession.

Troop A, known as the "Black Horse" Troop, Cleveland's representative in the cavalry branch of the Ohio National Guard, will serve as personal escort to President Taft in his inaugural parade Thursday. Seventy-six men strong, it will ride with the carriage which contains the newly-sworn President from the Capitol to the White House, as it has done at every previous inauguration of an Ohio-born President.

Troop A was organized in 1877. The troop acted as personal escort to President Garfield at his inauguration, and in the fall of the same year escorted his body to Lakeview Cemetery. At the time of the Spanish war, Troop A became the nucleus of the First Regiment Ohio Volunteer Cavalry, and took the field.

Men of prominence in the state and nation have been members of Troop A. The late John Hay, Secretary of the State, was a member. All the mounts for the inaugural parade are black, matched for size and color. The troop wears a full-dress of special design, being similar to the uniform of the Tenth Hussars in the British service.

THE HEAVENS IN MARCH.

Taurus, the Brilliant Summer Constellation, Will Soon Set.

The Newly Discovered Comet Is Recognized as Shining Principally by Its Own Light.

[Professor Eric Doolittle of University of Pennsylvania.]

The beautiful planet Saturn, which with its rings and numerous moons is always a most interesting object in the telescope, is rapidly leaving the evening sky. During the first week in March it may be seen setting almost exactly in the west point of the horizon, at about 7 o'clock, but the sun is steadily drawing nearer the planet, and April 3 will pass to the east of it; from this time until next autumn, Saturn will be a morning star.

The far more brilliant Jupiter is high up in the southeast, in the most favorable position of the entire year for observation. It reached its least distance from the earth at 2 P. M., February 28, and during the next few weeks will only very slowly recede from us. Its golden disc, encircled by rose-colored bands parallel to the planet's equator, and its wealth of finer markings, which are brought into view, one after the other, as this great world turns rapidly on its axis, form the most beautiful object for study of all the planets.

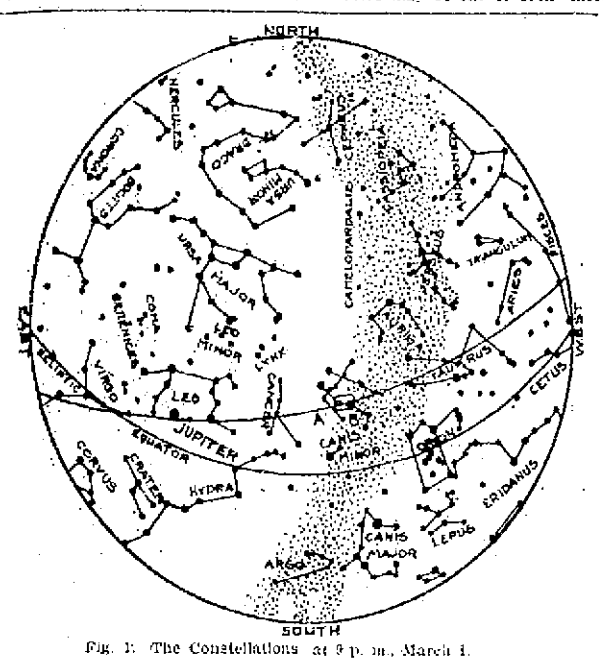

Fig. 1. The Constellations at 9 p. m., March 1.

None of the bright winter constellations has yet left the evening sky, although toward the close of the month the brilliant Taurus will begin to set, but low down in the east the first of the faint summer constellations may be seen just beginning to appear. This is the Virgin, which closely follows the brilliant Leo; by next July, Leo, which is the last of the winter constellations to linger with us, will sink from view in the west, and the whole southern sky will then be covered with the faint summer stars.

During this month the possessor of a small telescope should hunt for the two faint little planets, Neptune and Uranus. The first of these is in the constellation of the Twins, between the stars A and B of Figure 1. If the observer will point his telescope at the star B, move it upward until it points to nearly the height of the star A, and then wait 3 minutes and 40 seconds, the planet will drift into his field of view. If a mounted telescope is not available he can readily find it with the help of Figure 2. In a small telescope the planet will not show a disc, for as seen by us it looks no larger than a five-cent piece would if held up a mile away, but it has not the same appearance as the stars which are near it. It will be seen as a dull, greenish star of magnitude seven and one half, contrasting strongly in color with the two red stars C and D, Figure 2.

Fig. 2. The square of Fig. 1 enlarged to show the position of Venus.

So remote is this great world that the sun viewed from it would appear as an intensely bright star, showing no disc to the eye. Our own world and the four other planets nearest the sun would be so minute and so lost in the sun's rays as to be hopelessly invisible. Two-thirds as far away as Neptune is yet its sister planet, Uranus. The two worlds are strikingly similar, each slightly more than 30,000 miles in diameter, each very much less dense than the earth, and both of them probably still very hot and in a vaporized condition. As Uranus is so much nearer to us it appears much the brighter, and is clearly visible to the eye under favorable conditions as a greenish sixth magnitude star.

Throughout the month, Uranus is near the planet Mars, which is seen shining out in the southeast for two or three hours before sunrise. It will be most easily found on the morning of the twenty-sixth or twenty-seventh, for in the afternoon of March 26 Mars, in its eastward motion, will pass exactly below the outer planet, at which time they will be separated by a distance only very slightly greater than half the apparent diameter of the moon.

Though Neptune is so enormously distant from the sun that it requires 165 years to pass once around its orbit it has many times been suspected that there may be one or even more great worlds so far away that their years are thousands of times as long as ours. The possible existence of such a body has been inferred from two different facts, of which the first is the position of the paths of certain comets, and the second is a possible disturbance of the motion of the planet Uranus.

It is well known that when a comet passes near a planet the pull of the latter body may cause the comet to move in an entirely new path, and when this occurs both the point of the new path wihe his farthest from the sun and also the point in which the comet passes through the plane of the planet's orbit will be near the orbit of the disturbing planet. Thus, in Figure 3 there are drawn the paths of several comets which have been disturbed in this way by the planet Jupiter. The points marked B are those in which the comet moves through the plane of Jupiter's orbit, and it will be noticed from the points B and A all lie not far from the path M. N. of Jupiter itself. There are 30 comets connected with Jupiter in this way, two with Saturn, three with Uranus, six with Neptune, and a few others whose greatest distance from the sun is about twice that of Neptune. It is these last which are assumed to have been disturbed by a hitherto undiscovered planet.

If a new planet exists, its pull must slightly disturb the motions of Uranus and Neptune. About 20 years ago evidence of such a disturbance was suspected with the former planet, and the new body was carefully searched for with the great telescope at Washington. We cannot be certain that such a disturbance exists until the pull of each of the known planets of the solar system has been determined and allowed for; when this has been done the prediction of the position of the disturbing body among the stars is a comparatively simple matter, if it exists, which is as yet by no means certain. It will probably be discovered by photography. It has been suggested that this far-distant world, revolving slowly and majestically around the sun, shall be named Chronos, the time-keeper.

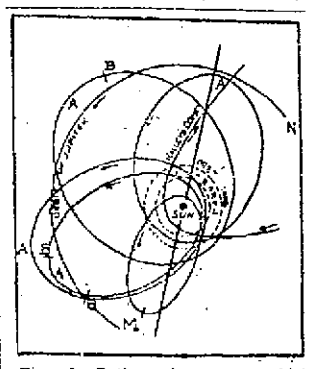

Fig. 3. Paths of comets which pass near the planet.

Of this body hundreds of photographs have been secured, showing an almost continuous history of its wonderful changes in form and structure. It is hoped that when these have been carefully studied our knowledge of the nature of comets may be greatly advanced. Already it is recognized that this comet shines principally by its own light, although doubtless composed of an immense swarm of small particles, there are few of these which are dark until lit up by the light of the sun. Another most interesting result is that though great clouds of radiant matter were driven off from the head of the comet, their motion was very probably not due to light pressure, as has been quite generally believed, because their velocity did not increase as they receded, but actually seemed to slightly diminish. It seems probable that the wonderful repulsive forces whose action forms the tails of comets are electrical in character.

This is the best time of the year for observing that faint, mysterious pyramid of light, which extends upward from the Western horizon after the sun has fully set. It cannot be seen except when the sky is very clear and the moon absent; the observer should therefore look for it during the second and third weeks of the month. It is probable that this light is sunlight reflected from a great lens-shaped swarm of little particles which surround the sun and extend beyond the orbit of the earth, but there are also several other theories in regard to it.

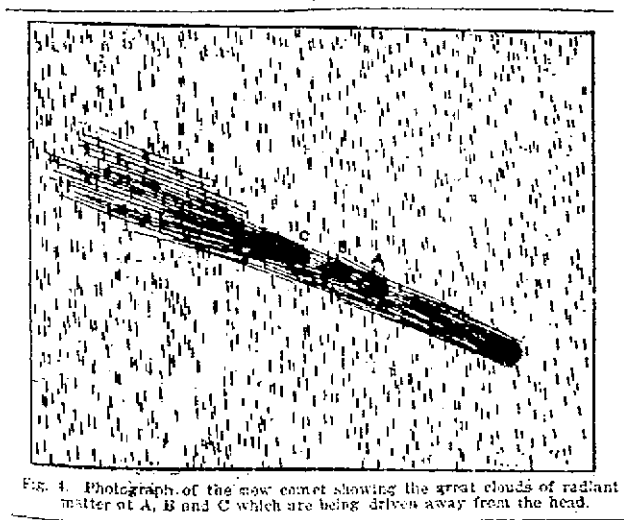

Fig. 4. Photograph of the new comet showing the great clouds of radiant matter at A, B and C which are being driven away from the head.

COMMANDER SIMS PRAISED.

Roosevelt Declares Officer's Services to Navy Demand Emphatic Recognition.

By way of tribute for the signal service rendered by Commander Sims, the new commander of battleship Minnesota, the President has sent a special memorandum on the subject to Secretary Newberry. The memorandum says:

"The President wishes it to be distinctly understood that the navy regulations were not changed or amended in order to enable him to appoint Commander Sims, late inspector of target practice, to command the battleship Minnesota.

"The President simply desires, before leaving office, to make practical recognition of Commander Sims's really invaluable services during the past seven years in building up a system of gunnery in the United States navy which has won for our seamen a unique and enviable reputation as marksmen; which has made possible a rapidity of hitting at long ranges hitherto undreamed of and which in every essential that obtains for success in time of war has enormously increased our fighting efficiency as a sea power.

"I am informed by officers, in whose judgment I have confidence, including Admiral Wainwright, that our fighting power is now at least five times greater than it was before our training was improved by Commander Sims's methods.

"Within the last year our rapidity of hitting increased more than 100 per cent. In addition to this, his specialty, he has been largely instrumental, by his recommendations, improving the design of our men-of-war, particularly in bringing about the definite adoption of our new type of all-big-gun battleships, through the conclusive arguments presented by him in various papers on the subject. I regard him as having rendered to the United States navy services of such signal value that it is my duty to recognize them in emphatic fashion.

"Please file this with Commander Sims's record."

He was born in Budapest in 1877, and was educated in the military academy in that city and later became a lieutenant in the Hungarian Hussars. The count has been married. His wife was Marianne, daughter of Herr Walgang von Szell, president of the senate of Debreczin, Hungary, but the marriage was an unhappy one, and the couple separated by mutual consent. Later a divorce was granted, and she married Jan Kubelik, the violinist, whom she met at Debreczin.

EVENING.

[William Griffith, in Hampton's Magazine.]

There is only a star in the sky;
On the wandering waters the breeze
Dies away in the ghost of a sigh
Over meadow and marsh comes the sheep
Of the frog—and a dream in the trees
Are the wren and the robin a-sleep.

Now rises the moon like a frail
Floating bubble just over the hill,
At the far-keening call of the quail.
All the dark brooding forest is still,
Save the night so shyly astir,
Or the ripple and brilliant trill

Then the night slowly warms, and the gray
Velvet deepens as softly as night,
And the rivalry dies as it has way.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH CHANGE.

The change in the Board of Health proposed by the Committee of Twenty-Five is not a return to the old order of things, in which the Board of Aldermen alone constituted the Board of Health. It does not devolve upon the aldermen the executive duties now resting in the health authorities. Instead, it provides for a superintendent of health, who is to be the executive officer of the Board of Aldermen and do all the work for the board, having all the powers of the Board of Aldermen as a Board of Health. The other officers are to be in the main as at present, except that the Board of Health as now constituted is abolished.

The sub-committee in its report to the Committee of Twenty-Five said: "The gain in efficiency by having a suitable executive head, with full authority for action and with a responsibility for the whole subject, would be very great." For this reason, in spite of the increased cost the Committee of Twenty-Five approved the recommendations for a change. The city cannot have too careful a supervision of its health matters, and the plan proposed affords supervision and direction which no Board of Health, made up of members who can give but little time to the work, could give.

HENDRICK HUDSON.

History is being re-written at a great rate, and now we have objections filed with the Secretary of the Treasury against having history, as it is now commonly accepted, written upon the New York custom house—in the form of a tablet to Hendrick Hudson as the discoverer of the river which bears his name.

Hudson was an English shipmaster employed by a Dutch company, and discovered, as is popularly supposed, two mighty rivers, the Hudson and the Delaware. They were long known as the North river and the South river. The latter name has entirely disappeared, but the former is still the prevalent name for the Hudson in New York city, although the word "North" has no significance except its antithesis to the "South." He did not go far into the Delaware. He found shoal water and concluded that he had not struck the Northwest passage to India which was the thing he was seeking, and pulled out and followed the coast into New York harbor. There he found a deep channel which looked like the thing he was after, and he sailed up the river which bears his name until that also became narrow and shallow and he decided that he had not yet found the passage to India.

It is said that two Spaniards had seen the Hudson river before Hendrick did. It is quite possible, and it would not much affect the claims of Hudson. If they did Columbus remains the discoverer of America in spite of the able arguments that [illegible] against the contention several centuries before he [illegible] Queen Isabella to pawn her jewels to fit out his expedition and persuaded his crew to stick to their job by making an egg stand on its end. The continent took its name from a man who had much less claim to being a discoverer than Columbus had. For all practical purposes Columbus discovered America and Hudson discovered the Hudson and Delaware rivers. If we go back behind the [illegible] we go back to [illegible] who knew the continent [illegible] long before [illegible] Spanish [illegible] New York harbor.

existence of a popular school for young women near Yale were cited.

When the demand of women for a college education first commanded attention, the easiest way of meeting it was to admit the young women into colleges for men already in operation. Since that time a number of colleges for women have been established and now enjoy a high reputation; therefore young women are not dependent upon co-education for higher learning. Nevertheless, they are usually much in favor of it. The young men are almost unanimously opposed to it, and appear to be gaining in their ungallant fight against young women in their classes. Wesleyan University at Middletown, Conn., has just followed the example of two or three Western institutions, abandoning co-education after a considerable trial.

It certainly suggests humorous explanations that the women should generally favor co-education and the men should take a position of hostility. It will of course be said that the latter are often distanced in their studies by the girls, but it is hardly possible that this is all the explanation. Perhaps the girls feel that it is their duty to exercise that refining influence over men of which we hear so much, and the boys are not in a mood to be refined. Of course the faculty might observe tendencies toward flirtation and gallantry, but it takes two to play at that, the man and the girl, and the man ought not to complain; he can keep away from the girls if he doesn't wish to lament: "Julia hath metamorphosed me; made me neglect my studies, lose my time." But, after all, can he? Is his powerlessness in this direction the reason he objects to the presence of young women students, and also the reason why they insist on being present?

HOUSEWORK BY MACHINERY.

It remains for a Russian nobleman known all over the world for his work in the interest of freedom and progress to take up the cause of women in the relation of machinery to the domestic problem. He believes it is time that woman ceased to be the drudge of the household and points out that sweeping, cooking, sewing and washing may be done by the use of machinery equally as well and more quickly, thus giving the woman of the house more leisure to take her share in social life. Machines of all kinds, he declares, will be introduced in households and the use of motor power will enable people to work them without muscular effort. He also claims that this emancipation will not be brought about by small machines only, as households are emerging from their present state of isolation and privacy and are beginning to associate with others to do in common what they have done separately.

This co-operation of forces he says is one of the ways in which the problem will be solved. Whereas there are now 50 fires in 50 different houses, one fire and one kitchen would suffice to cook the food for the 50 families and it could be served in the different homes, still preserving the home, as each family would gather about its own dinner table in its own house. If machines are not used in the house all cooking, dishes to be washed, linen to be mended and cleansed and carpets to be brushed could be sent to this co-operative centre, where the work would be well done and the time and labor saved for the woman of the house could not be estimated. Time saved would make for more advancement in her life and labor saved would give her strength to meet various duties which even then would fall to her share in the domestic economy.

All this sounds somewhat like the millenium, but those who have studied the situation insist that it is not visionary and is bound to come. If it does we wonder if there will be much more happiness in the world and if some of the sweetness may not be taken from the word "home."

TRUSTS AND TALK.

Trusts are things to grow eloquent over, to denounce, to "flay," as the head-liners call it, because the word is of four letters and can be put into big type in a newspaper column. But to prosecute them, to legislate so as to hit the bad trusts and miss the good ones, and even to tell what a trust is, these are more laborious matters and the gentlemen of Congress are a little shy of them.

The House has declined to make what is practically an attack on a President of its own party, even if he is soon going out of office. It may feel that if the President authorized the merger of the Steel Corporation and the Tennessee Coal & Iron Company the whole government ought to be committed thereby, and it may be that the House shrinks from the incalculable vastness of the job involved in suing the steel trust. For what does it matter, if a combination can absorb a dozen companies, whether it should absorb another one or not? This is a view which Congressmen may have taken, though it is impossible to induce them to admit it. There has been a tremendous amount of denunciation of the Steel Corporation for absorbing the Tennessee Coal & Iron Company, but nothing has been said about the lawfulness of the corporation itself. The Steel Corporation bought out a dozen companies—that is the way it started; that was what it was organized for. Nobody has said it was illegal, but if it was all right why should a fuss be made about gobbling up one more company?

The House has voted down a proposition to [illegible] the Steel Corporation for swallowing its latest member [illegible] to have [illegible] if for that [illegible] to put its very [illegible] of that of most of the big [illegible] in question. That would [illegible] done much to restore confidence or strengthen the demand for [illegible] or [illegible] the good [illegible] to have come as [illegible] as Taft was elected, were then postponed till he should be inaugurated, and which now according to Mr. Taft himself are to arrive upon the enactment of a new tariff.

The Church of the Heavenly Rest in New York is no longer a haven for easily secured marriages. Dr. Houghton, the rector, has felt compelled in his effort to prevent hasty and secret marriages, marriages of divorced persons, of minors and of persons whose parents or guardians were not aware of the intended step to issue a list of questions to be answered by applicants. As a result 40 marriages which Dr. Houghton might have performed in February, did not take place in the church, because one or the other of the parties admitted having been divorced. Twenty others were refused for other causes.

"Lucky" Baldwin, whose death on his California ranch, in his eighty-first year, is announced, gained his name from the luck which followed his speculative ventures. He was a plunger of the plungers, and it was said that everything he touched turned to gold. He made several fortunes and lost them, but each succeeding venture turned out better than that which preceded. He made money in the mines, on the race track, and in real estate investments in San Francisco and other parts of California, and at his death his possessions were scattered up and down the length of the state.

President-elect Taft has laid down the hard and fast rule that he will not interfere in any political squabble in any state or assist in a factional war within the party. If he holds to this he will be relieved from all sorts of embarrassments, but may cease to be popular in various circles.

In the Maine municipal elections yesterday the Republican candidates for mayor were successful in nine of the eleven cities, a gain of two over last year. Republican city governments were chosen in eight of these cities.

ADMIRAL GOODRICH.

Secretary Newberry hopes to induce his successor at the head of the Navy Department to retain Rear Admiral C. F. Goodrich on active duty as the general inspector of navy yards so that the Newberry plan of navy yard administrative re-organization may be carried out, as he has planned. On account of Rear Admiral Goodrich's familiarity with the Newberry plan in all its details, it is desired by Mr. Newberry to have some one in the next administration who will see that the scheme is carried out and that no unnecessary obstruction is introduced. If the next Secretary of the Navy does not agree to the proposition, Rear Admiral Goodrich will be relieved of the duty of general inspector of navy yards in May, at which time it is also expected, in any event, he will be detached from duty as commandant of the navy yard at Brooklyn.

KEEP HATS ON.

Something is wrong with Boston women. Many attending the symphony concerts persist in their refusal to meet the request of the management to remove their hats. Patrons are angry because they cannot see the musicians, and they have deluged the office with complaints. A printed card was distributed among the patrons at one of the concerts, asking the women to have some regard for those seated in the rear and remove their hats. A few responded, but most of the women ignored the card. Unless the management is able to abate the nuisance, an appeal, it is said will be made to the Police Commissioner.

PORTSMOUTH.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

The Newport County Woman Suffrage Association met with its president, Miss Cora Mitchel, at her home at Bristol Ferry Monday afternoon. A number of the members were out of town, the company numbering 17, of whom six came from Tiverton and one from Middletown. Mrs. Berton W. Storrs's resignation as recording secretary was received and accepted and Miss Majorie Hicks was elected to fill the office. As she was not present, Mrs. Walter Chase acted as secretary pro-tem. Clippings on the subject of woman suffrage were read.

Mrs. William B. Clarke entertained at luncheon Monday Mrs. Pierce of Tiverton.

Steps for Providence Public Market and Other Boom Measures.

Charges Against Deputy Sheriff Newhall—The Bristol Town Election Tickets.

Definite steps toward the establishment of a public market in Providence were taken Monday evening, when a message on the subject was sent to the city council by Mayor Fletcher and the accompanying resolution was passed by both branches. The message calls attention to the fact that the present system causes the venders considerable hardship and brings no revenue to the city treasury. Other cities, the mayor points out, derive substantial income from the fees charged for the space allotted to these venders. It directs the city solicitor to apply to the state legislature, substantially, according to the accompanying draft of a bill for the regulation and storage and sale of merchandise in the city's streets.

The first list of names to be submitted to the Providence Board of Trade for membership as a result of the efforts to boom Providence will be presented at the monthly meeting this evening, between 50 and 75 applications having been received, while it is expected that more names will be added to the list. It is announced that the effort to promote co-operation among the different business organizations is meeting with success. This evening the Board of Trade will listen to a paper by John R. Freeman on "Personal Observations at the Panama Canal." It is announced by Colonel Webb that an aggressive business man has been selected for the head of the committee which will try to attract new industries to the city, and he also said that negotiations are already under way with two large enterprises which it is desired shall come to Providence.

George R. McAuslan, who has been in the Providence County jail since February 20, in default of $35,000 bail in no exact proceedings brought against him, declares that before leaving for the jail he signed a check for $100 to the order of Deputy Sheriff Charles C. Newhall. Mr. McAuslan claims that Mr. Newhall demanded that sum "for the services of the sheriff's department" in connection with Mr. McAuslan's arrest, which came as a result of the litigation over the estate of the late John McAuslan. The check for $100 was drawn on the Atlantic National Bank and was paid Feb. 23. It bears the endorsement of Charles C. Newhall. Mr. Newhall, when asked what the money was for, declared that no such payment had been made to the sheriff's department, or in connection with it, and that any charges which might be made in such a case would be a personal arrangement between himself and the person placed under arrest, refusing to make any further statement.

Following the advice and opinion of Attorney General William B. Greenough in the Bristol Republican caucus controversy, Town Clerk John M. Coggeshall of Bristol has given notice that it is his duty to recognize and print the names of the regular Republican nominees for town offices—the persons nominated by the second caucus, that caucus having been recognized by the Republican town committee. Mr. Coggeshall announces that his duties in the matter are not judicial, as many persons seem to suppose. They are only ministerial. As the case has points about it which are unique, it is understood by the candidates involved in the controversy that a court decision is necessary, and the candidates who would be affected most if the first caucus list were eliminated are to take the matter to supreme court for a decision, if possible and have already begun steps toward such a course.

Plans for a new parish house on Stewart street as a part of the All Saints Memorial Church, Providence, have been accepted and the contracts for the construction have been signed. The building will cost $32,000. It will have every convenience of a parish house and will represent a total investment with the land, which was bought about ten years ago, of about $44,000 when completed and furnished. Two buildings, on land adjoining the church, will be torn down. Work will start in April, it is proposed. The parish house will be the same style architecturally as the church, but in rough brown brick, with brownstone trimmings. It will be three stories high and connect with the church building, as well as having separate entrances. A new choir room is planned, with lockers, and a kitchen will be built. In the basement, besides the heating apparatus, there will be a large room, 77 by 33 feet, for recreation and gymnasium work. It is expected to put bowling alleys and pool tables there in the future. On the second floor will be a large assembly hall for Sunday school work and concerts, with a stage. A library will be on this floor and connection with the study in the old church will be from here.

Patrolman John R. Feeley of Providence, who was retired because of disability, has sent a petition to the city council, asking that he be paid $1,651.63, which sum, he says, is due him. In his petition Mr. Feeley says he was appointed upon the police force October 29, 1888, and that he received $2.75 per day. At the end of three years' service he was to have been paid at the rate of $3 per day, beginning October 29, 1891. July 4, 1900, he was shot while on duty. Not until January 1, 1903, did he receive his full pay. There were 4,079 days between October 29, 1891 and January 1, 1903, for each of which he should have been paid an additional 25 cents. This amounted to $1,019.75 and with interest to $1,651.63. The matter was referred to the committee on claims.

Henrietta LeFevre, for 18 years matron of the Providence Young Women's Association, is dead from diseases incident to old age. She was in her eighty-fifth year. Miss LeFevre was born in Pawtucket December 4, 1824, and was educated in the schools of that place. She spent the greater part of her life there and was always interested in work for young women. She finally became the matron of the Young Women's Christian Association in Providence, where she remained 18 years, retiring about nine years ago. She then made her home at the association building and had lived there ever since. She was a member of Grace Church.

The German-American Alliance of Rhode Island has unanimously voted to celebrate German day this year Monday, June 14, and it is left to the German day committee to select a place. It is believed that this will be the greatest of all German days yet held in the state.

IN THE SUNDRY CIVIL BILL.

The sundry civil bill, which was passed by the Senate Monday, carries $99,000 for building improvements, including Providence; $615,000 for revenue cutter service to provide launches for Portland, Me., and other ports, and revenue cutters and steam vessels for Narragansett bay, the port of New York and Key West, Fla.; $392,300 for additional lighthouses and other aids to navigation; $66,660 for additional accommodation for the President's office building, and $25,000 for traveling expenses of the President, the latter sum being included by reason of the refusal of the House to agree to raise the salary of the President to $100,000.

DIVORCE MILL GRINDS.

Decision in One Case and a Long Hearing in Another, Still Unfinished.

Judge Brown presided in the superior court this morning and those who have a taste for sampling family jars, so to speak, had an opportunity to obtain a stomach full. The divorce mill ground on and on and on, until one of the lawyers came to a pause, when the noon recess was ordered.

Mr. Brown had a comparatively short case, Geneva E. King vs. Andrew T. King. It was a Jamestown case and there was decision for divorce on the ground of continued drunkenness. The evidence showed that respondent had "the habit ever since he was old enough to drink it," that he was frequently drunk, was then quarrelsome and "holds the town." He was also usually "hilarious on the boat." The custody of the three children was given to petitioner.

Messrs. Burdick and Levy entered an order, by agreement, as to counsel fees in a newly entered case of Theresa Soule vs. T. H. Soule.

Then Mary Elizabeth Lanahan vs. William L. Lanahan proceeded. Mr. Levy was ready for trial and Judge Franklin paid the necessary money. Mr. Levy had several witnesses, some under summons, who were not present. He proceeded, calling Mrs. Lanahan.

The marriage was 20 years ago to a day, in New York city. Extreme cruelty, continued drunkenness neglect to provide and desertion were charged. But it was agreed to limit the case to the first two allegations. There are three children. They lived first in Providence, then in New York 12 years, then in Newport.

Within a year, petitioner says, he struck her in the face, in New York. He came home drunk, and beat her black and blue. Another time he appeared as she and her sister were speaking in French. He imagined it was about him and threw her to the floor, then took a knife to her. Eight years ago he knocked her down, being ugly from drinking the previous night. Other similar instances were cited.

The house was empty, she was in poor health and it was leave of nervous prostration for her; she left. She was a month with her sister. She then had a situation as nurse in a private sanitarium for wealthy patients. She had opportunity and attended lectures at the city hospital; also had a position in a choir.

He came to persuade her to return. She was away five months. For a week the matter was discussed. He took an oath on the Bible that he would not again "stand in a barroom" or strike her. She returned with him. He had also written letters to her, which she gave to Judge Franklin, her attorney in a former petition for divorce, which she dropped. After the return to Newport, respondent did well—just a year. Then a child was born and he drank continually. He was ugly when intoxicated.

Respondent said to her: "The court won't let me strike you, but I can spit in your face." He did. He stood so quietly, doing it three or four times, that she struck him and gave him a black eye. Then he knocked her down, having the baby on his other arm. He said he would kill her. She escaped.

On another occasion, there being visitors in another room, he threw her out of the dining room. That was last May. He then appeared, bowing low to her, in the front room and asking her to dance with him. She refused and it took the company to rescue her from his fury. She said she would leave him and after a while she did.

She is willing to take care of herself. Had seven years' education in a convent in Montreal and has a promise of work here, nursing. She desires the children and is willing to let him take them when he desires. She asked $3 a week for each, until each is earning for herself. He is a gilder, earning $18 a week, steady. She went away and earned money and will pay back debts of the family.

In cross-examination, to Mr. Engel, witness gave a concise test for drunkenness. It was when her husband acted unnatural. He never reeled. He never threatened the children. He did not bother with them unless she asked him to reprove them. They were fond of him—she desired it so. She was afraid of him. She has not condoned respondent's more recent offences, and has refused to accept his advances. The court pointed out that she forgave respondent on condition that he would not stand in barrooms or be cruel, and that he had broken his agreement.

Adela Lanahan testified, corroborating certain points of petitioner's evidence. She said she would rather live with her mother. Her father always treated the children well. She said she used to take a taste of beer (petitioner never required respondent to be a total abstainer), but, said the witness, "I never taste it any more."

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Mr. C. B. Tallman is able to be out after a spell of sickness.

—Mrs. Edward H. Bulkley and her sister, Miss Stewart, went to New York today.

—Steamer City of Lowell left this morning to take the place of the New Hampshire on the Stonington line.

—The district court gave way to the superior court this morning and there was business down stairs at the court house.

—Senator Sanborn rests easily every night and is doing as well as his physician and family could expect. He is able to take nourishment freely and often without trouble.

—The body of Mrs. John Carter Brown will be taken to Providence tomorrow, and the funeral will take place privately Thursday morning, from her residence in that city.

—There has been a variety of weather since Monday. A little snow fell for about an hour and a half, about midnight, enough to make a white covering. Then the rain came and washed it out. Today there has been alternate rain, sunshine and a little fog, with little sunshine and a feeling of April rather than February.

—Mr. Walter K. R. Holm, who has been agent in Newport for the Puritan Life Insurance Company of Providence since its organization in 1907, has resigned and accepted the position of general agent for Rhode Island for the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company of Philadelphia, and will commence his new duties at once. The branch office of the company is in Providence, where he will remove with his family during the summer.

—The loss on the Gladding property, corner of Touro and Spring streets by fire a short time ago, which was insured through the agency of Henry Bull, Jr., has been settled for $271. The loss to the house on Johnson court, owned by Harry Silverman, damaged by fire last Wednesday evening, insured through the agencies of Henry Bull, Jr., and the C. A. Hammett Company, has been settled for $132.

MUST BE PROPERLY PACKED.

Otherwise Pathological Specimens Will Be Refused in Mails.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Pathological specimens of dangerous diseases, like tuberculosis and diphtheria, will in the future be refused admission to the mails unless securely packed in accordance with the postal specifications according to an order issued by Postmaster General Meyer today.

SENATOR POTTER ACTING GOVERNOR,

Elected President Instead of Senator Wilbour.

Legislature Doing Business Despite Officials' Absence.

[Special despatch to the News.]

PROVIDENCE, March 2.—Despite the fact that Governor Pothier, several other high functionaries and a number of uniformed aides from the state militia departed this morning for Washington, where they are "to properly represent the state" at an expense of $5,000, the legislature convened as usual and did business. It was also arranged to meet in joint convention tomorrow to elect a justice of the superior court. Judge Lee is said to be the man who will be chosen.

Assistant Secretary of State Parker called the senate to order and asked for nominations for president and not. ing governor. Senator Bennett of Woonsocket named Senator Philip Wilbour of Little Compton, which was seconded by Senator Clarke of Jamestown. Senator Calvin of East Greenwich named Senator Charles Potter of Gloucester, and Senators McKenna and Arnold seconded this nomination. Senator Potter was elected by a vote of 23 to 10. Prior to the election a bunch of pinks arrived from Speaker Burchard for Governor Wilbour and was allowed to decorate his desk. A vote of thanks was extended to "Governor Parker" for his brief labors.

Mr. Fales of Burrillville, from the committee on finance, reported a bill appropriating $2,000 for the publication of early births and marriages. Placed on the calendar.

Senator Church of Bristol reported from the same committee, a bill providing for an expenditure of $200 in repairs on the prisoners' automobile at Cranston. The bill went to the calendar.

Senator Church introduced a bill providing for $350 for repairs and a shower bath at the state armory in Bristol. Referred to the finance committee.

In the house Mr. Franklin of Newport, from the committee on judiciary, reported back a bill for the remission of the fine in the case of the State vs. Patrick Higgins. Passed.

He also reported back, with favorable recommendation, the amendment to the charter of the Pascoag Fire District. Placed on the calendar.

Mr. Hassard of Newport, from the committee on corporations, reported favorably the act extending the time for building the Pascoag & Providence street railway. Placed on the calendar.

Mr. Lacey of Burrillville introduced an act providing for a board of canvassers in that town. Referred to the committee on judiciary.

Mr. Eaton of Providence, Mr. Bullock of Pawtucket and Mr. Monast of Pawtucket presented petitions favoring the passage of local option and taxation laws. Referred to the committee on judiciary.

Mr. Davis of Gloucester introduced an amendment to the court and practice act. Referred to the finance committee.

Mr. Davis of Johnston introduced an invitation for the governor and senate to meet the house in grand committee tomorrow, for the election of a justice of the superior court.

Mr. Littlefield of Providence introduced a resolution to provide Edward B. Luther with all the privileges of a citizen under chapter 295 of the Public Laws. Referred to the committee on militia.

Mr. Jepherson of Providence presented a resolution providing for the paying of the expenses of the publication of the returns of the State Returning Board. Referred to the committees on counts and claims.

Mr. Cutler of Providence introduced an amendment to chapter 283 of the Public Laws, at the request of the city council of Providence. The amendment provides for making it a misdemeanor to have a policy slip in one's possession. Referred to the committee on judiciary.

Acts were taken from the calendar and passed, as follows: Amendment to the court and practice act, an act relating to the ward lines of the city of Providence, an act for an annual appropriation by the city of Providence for the relief of its firemen and policemen, an act to provide relief for the employes of the department of public works of the same city, an act bearing on the voting districts of Warwick, and an appropriation of $300 for metallic markers for the graves of soldiers and sailors of the war of the Rebellion.

The Providence city council has directed the city solicitor to appear against the proposed tuberculosis hospital legislation before the General Assembly, which is to have a hearing by the house judiciary committee.

NOT SPOTTED FEVER.

Epidemic at the Training Station Officially Declared to be Scarlet Fever.

A report has gained circulation in Newport that the epidemic which has caused the quarantine at the Training Station is not scarlet fever but has been decided to be spotted fever. The News is authorized by Lieutenant Commander Phelps, who is at present in command of the station, to state that there is no truth in the report and that the disease is scarlet fever. There have been no new cases in six days and hope is expressed on the island that no more will develop.

A NEW ORGANIST AT ST. JOHN'S.

Mr. Otto James, A. R. C. O. T. C. L., arrived today to begin his duties as organist and choir director of the Zabriskie Memorial Church of St. John the Evangelist. Mr. James comes from Trenton, N. J., where he was organist at the State Street Methodist Episcopal Church, the most important of the denomination in that city. Prior to his position at Trenton he was organist at Trinity Church, Toronto, Canada. He comes to Newport with highest credentials, being an associate member of the Royal College of Organists, London, England, and also a pianoforte graduate of Trinity College, London. Mr. James will be heard in both pianoforte and organ recitals at a later date, which will give the public an opportunity to judge of his ability.

CARMACK REVOLVER EXAMINED.

Expert Contradicts Former Testimony in Cooper Trial.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 2.—The fact that the rebuttal witnesses for the state had been summoned to be in court today in the Carmack murder trial indicated that the case for the defence was almost completed. The state proposed to make another attempt to put before the jury the fact that Senator Carmack, so far from feeling angry, scoffed at the idea of trouble, and aroused himself only to relieve the anxiety of his friends. Judge Hart ruled this testimony out on cross-examination of the defense's witnesses, but the prosecution will offer it as part of its rebuttal testimony.

W. M. Setter, a witness for the defense, said he is an expert on firearms, and testified as to the kind of bullets used in an automatic pistol.

General Garner, for the state, said: "I hand you Senator Carmack's revolver. Examine it and tell whether or not the cylinder can be revolved without pulling the trigger."

The witness experimented, and said, "It can be turned only by pulling the trigger."

This flatly contradicts the testimony of S. J. Benning yesterday, who swore he saw Carmack testing his revolver a few minutes before the tragedy by whirling the cylinder with his finger.

The next witness, W. S. Morgan, told of hearing the shots, of running out of his apartment and of meeting Mrs. Eastman, who was hysterical.

"Did she say Colonel Cooper said: 'That is like a dastardly coward, hiding behind a woman'?

"Yes, sir."

"Did she say he said: 'Now we have the drop on you'?

"No, sir."

He said Mrs. Eastman gave him the impression that Colonel Cooper had shot Carmack without giving him a chance.

EVERY REQUIREMENT MET.

"Lucky" Baldwin's $30,000,000 Estate Equitably Divided.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 2.—"Lucky" Baldwin's estate is worth $30,000,000, according to a statement by his manager, A. N. Unrub. This is the largest estate ever probated in Southern California.

Knowing that there would be an attempt to break any will which he might make, Baldwin had his attorney, Brydner W. Lee, draw a document which would be sure to meet every possible legal requirement. This was executed several months ago, while the old man's mind was still perfectly clear. Attorney Lee declined to discuss the contents of the will. He said, however, that the document provides for an equitable division of all property. One who has seen the will says it allows Mrs. Baldwin more than would be hers under a court division and provides for all the legal heirs. There is a blanket mortgage against the estate for about $1,500,000, held by the Hibernia Savings Bank of San Francisco. This and minor incumbrances are expected to reduce the value of the estate to the heirs to about $25,000,000.

The body of Baldwin will lie in state in "The Cottage" on the Santa Anita ranch all day today, after being embalmed. It will be sent to San Francisco Wednesday, and the funeral will take place in that city Thursday. The final resting-place will be in San Francisco, by the side of his first wife.

BUSINESS REDUCED IN VOLUME.

Yet American Woolen Company Earned Half Preferred Dividend.

NEW YORK, March 2.—The annual meeting of the American Woolen Company was held in Jersey City today. The president reported that the depression which occurred during the latter part of 1907 continued during the past year, and there was a consequent reduction of the volume of gross business to $20,986,978. In spite of this depression, he reported the company earned over one-half of its preferred dividend, paying the balance out of the surplus, which by such payment is reduced to $8,945,703.

OFFICIAL MEETINGS.

The Board of Aldermen will hold its monthly meeting this evening. It held the financial meeting, for the approval of the monthly bills, Monday evening, but nothing of general interest happened. Tomorrow night the Committee of Twenty-Five will hold another meeting, and Thursday the Board of Aldermen will hold their weekly meeting. It is not known just when the Representative Council will have its financial meeting, to consider the report of the Committee of Twenty-Five. The printed reports are now going around. The fact that Monday was the first of the month somewhat delayed their delivery, but they will probably all be delivered by tomorrow. Then there is to be a lapse of at least seven days before the Council can meet.

TELEPHONE EXTENSION ON THE POINT.

For some time the men of the telephone company have been installing a new 400-pair wire cable in the conduits, to connect with the line going out along the railway track for the Point and the north. This work has so far advanced that today the men are connecting the wires at the telephone exchange. When the first cable of 400 wires was put in it was thought that this district was provided for for years and no more wires would be used, but the demand has grown so fast that it was found necessary to put in another cable, with as many more wires. Yet Manager Wright says "things are dull." It is evident that he does not expect them to continue dull all the time.

LIQUOR IN THE STATE HOUSE.

Bishop McVickar Says Many Young Legislators Have Been Debauched.

PROVIDENCE, March 2.—"It would be a good thing if liquor could be banished from the car state house on the hill, where I understand every a young legislator has been debauched in the interest of party," declared Bishop William N. McVickar of the Providence Episcopal diocese, before the tenth annual meeting of the Rhode Island Temperance League here today.

Besides the address of Bishop McVickar, a feature of the meeting was the report of Rev. A. B. Christy, superintendent of the league, whose slogan was "an ultimate suppression of beverage liquor traffic in Rhode Island." Rev. Mr. Cristy declared that the time is not far distant when a majority of the qualified voters of the state will favor the suppression of the liquor traffic. He spoke further of the progress by the league, of the control of the drug store; the enforcement of the Sunday closing law, of the "dry Christmas, election and Labor days, the disbandment of "kitchen saloons," limitation of licenses to one for each 500 of population, reducing the number of licensed places to less than two-thirds of their former number, and of steps toward local option.

PREPARING FOR BIG RUN.

Coast-to-Coast Race to Start with Alaska-Yukon Opening.

CHICAGO, March 2.—"Tom" Moore of New York, who is becoming a coast-to-coast automobile race, is here with glowing accounts of the wave of motor interest sweeping through the Northwest in the van of the coming contest. Save for a few minor details, everything in connection with the big run has been completed, and the finishing touches are billed for enactment March 15, when the pathfinders will start over their 4,000-mile junket.

While in Seattle Moore arranged with the officials of the Alaskan-Yukon Exposition to have the fair and the race start simultaneously June 1, with the pressing of a button in Washington. The route will be from New York to Albany, Buffalo, Cleveland, Chicago, Omaha, Cheyenne and to Granger. From Granger the course is unsettled, and will be mapped out during the present month.

ROOSEVELT SAYS FAREWELL.

Cabinet, Diplomatic Corps and Ladies Express Parting Regrets.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—The last regular meeting of President Roosevelt's cabinet was held today. The time was mostly spent in pleasant farewells and reminiscent stories. The President expressed regret at parting with a body of such faithful helpers, and extended his best wishes. Each member of the cabinet had some feeling remark to make to the chief executive.

President Roosevelt had a busy day. He received hundreds of personal friends and well wishers. At 2:30 o'clock the President received the new minister from Hayti, H. Paulous Sannon, who presented his credentials. Cordial greetings were exchanged. Later the President received and bade farewell to the members of the diplomatic corps and their ladies. The reception was unique, in that it was requested by the members of the corps.

MEDFORD HAS $90,000 BLAZE.

Rain Saves Many Factories on Mystic from Being Set on Fire.

MEDFORD, Mass., March 2.—A little flame probably caused by a cigar stub or match carelessly cast into a barn started a fire early today which destroyed the wire factory of Oliver Whyte, a barn and two blacksmith shops, and damaged E. Forle & Co's carriage-top factory and two residences. The loss is estimated at $90,000. So rapidly did the flames spread, and so threatening was the fire, that assistance was summoned from the neighboring cities of Malden and Melrose. The loss on the Whyte factory was $75,000.

All the burned buildings were located on Swan street, on the southwest side of the Mystic river, and just south of Medford square. Rain prevented many of the numerous factories along both shores of the river from being set on fire by flying sparks.

HARVARD DORMITORY ON FIRE.

Blaze in Weld Hall Damages Building Only About $1,000.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 2.—A fire which broke out early today in Weld Hall, one of the largest dormitories at Harvard University, created much excitement in the college yard. Bringing out about 500 half-clad students who reside in the building and a great many from the other dormitories near by. The blaze started in the room of Walter G. Hodgdon, '11, of Lynbrook, on the fourth floor, but was subdued after it had worked its way through the room above to the roof of the five-story building. It is supposed to have originated from a live coal from an open fireplace in the room. Hodgdon and all the other inmates escaped in safety. The loss is estimated at about $1,000.

SNOW IN CENTRAL EUROPE.

Railroad and Wire Communication Greatly Disturbed in Prussia.

BERLIN, March 2.—Snow has been falling almost without interruption since Sunday over central Europe, and it is still falling. Railroad, telegraphic and telephonic communication is greatly disturbed in the eastern provinces of Prussia, and the snow generally is from six inches to two feet deep.

TEMPERANCE TIDE RISING.

Thirteen Massachusetts Towns Have Just Changed to "Dry."

BOSTON, March 2.—That the temperance tide in Massachusetts is still rising was shown today in a compilation of returns from the annual meetings of 164 out of 183 towns, as 13 changed from "wet" to "dry" and two from "dry" to "wet." Last year 56 out of 321 towns voted in favor of liquor selling. The towns which changed from "wet" to "dry" yesterday were:

	1909		1908
	Yes	No	Yes	No
Athol,	722	244	788	171
Barre,	155	182	162	154

PRESIDENTIAL INAUGURATIONS.

From George Washington Down to Lincoln's Second Term.

Changes Seen from "Jeffersonian Simplicity" to Pomp and State of Modern Times.

During the early years of the government, before the capital was moved to Washington, the induction of a President, although a ceremony of great dignity and solemnity, was a very small and select affair.

In New York for nearly a fortnight preceding the great day of April 30, 1789, every tavern and boarding house had been thronged with visitors, and on the day before the inauguration every private house was filled with guests from all parts of the Union.

In the centre of the procession, preceded by the Senate and followed by Representatives, walked George Washington. On reaching Federal hall the troops formed a line on each side of the way, through which the president, with his attendants, was conducted to the chamber of the Senate, where the Representatives had assembled a few minutes before, and at the door the Vice President received him and attended him to the chair.

The Vice President then said, "Sir, the Senate and the House of Representatives are ready to attend you to take the oath required by the constitution, which will be administered by the state of New York." The President answered, "I am ready to proceed." The Vice President and the Senators led the way, and, followed by the representatives, Washington walked to the outside gallery, overlooking both Wall and Broad streets, which were filled with a sea of upturned faces. Washington's first official act was to attend service in old St. Paul's.

The second inauguration of President Washington took place in Independence hall, at Philadelphia, March 4, 1793.

March 4, 1797, John Adams was inaugurated President of the United States in the old statehouse at Philadelphia. Although the day was favorable, there was no parade or gathering of a large assemblage.

Although the generally accepted accounts of Jefferson's inauguration make it appear that he rode to the Capitol on horseback without attendance and that the ceremony was of the simplest kind, a newspaper of the day states that "on this day President Elect Jefferson was escorted from his lodgings to the capitol by a body of militia and a procession of citizens."

Jefferson's second inauguration March 5, 1805, was simpler, if possible, than his first.

The inauguration of James Madison was the first ceremony which was made a great occasion. The day was ushered in by a federal salute, and at an early hour the volunteer corps of militia began to assemble. So great was the crowd that the oath of office was administered in the old hall of representatives, now statuary hall, at the capitol. For the first time in the history of inaugurations the various branches of the government were marshaled into the hall with ceremonious pomp and parade.

James Madison was inaugurated the second time March 4, 1813. He had a military escort, and the ceremonies in the House of Representatives were similar to those of his first inauguration. In the evening there was an inauguration ball at Davis' hotel, which is now the Metropolitan.

The fourth of March, 1817, was a beautiful day, and there was a large crowd to witness the inauguration ceremonies. The President elect and Vice President-elect left the private residence of President Monroe, attended by a large cavalcade of citizens on horseback. They were met at the Capitol by the militia, and the ceremony took place in the Senate chamber, which is now the supreme court room.

As the day for the second inauguration of James Monroe fell on Sunday the ceremony took place the following day, Monday, March 5.

John Quincy Adams was inaugurated March 4, 1825, and the day was one of great demonstration and display. President Monroe called at the residence of the President-elect, who then resided on F street, opposite the Edbitt House, and here they were joined by the military escort, and the procession, headed by the cavalry, moved at once to the capitol.

The inauguration of "Old Hickory" took place March 4, 1829, and was a memorable one. The friends of President John Quincy Adams had agreed not to participate in the inaugural ceremonies, and the only uniformed military company in the District of Columbia declined to offer its escort to the President-elect. A company of Revolutionary officers and soldiers, however, organized and tendered their services to General Jackson as an escort, and he rode to the capitol in an open carriage.

The second inauguration of Andrew Jackson was very simple. There was no military escort, no outward display and no procession.

The fourth of March, 1837, was a beautiful day, and the inauguration ceremonies of Martin Van Buren were celebrated, and the crowds in Washington severely taxed the capacity of the city. Van Buren was the first native American citizen inaugurated President, for all the others had been born as British subjects.

The inauguration of "Old Tippecanoe" was one of the greatest events that ever occurred in the national capital. After the furious campaign which preceded his election great crowds gathered in Washington to witness the inauguration.

Exactly one month after this President Harrison died, and April 6 John Tyler took the oath of office before William Cranch, chief judge of the circuit court of the District of Columbia.

It was a cold rainy day when President Polk was inaugurated, but there was a long procession of the military as well as civic organizations.

Zachary Taylor had fine weather, cultured cohs and great ceremonies attending the inauguration. As the fourth fell on Sunday, he was inaugurated on Monday.

As President Taylor died on July 9, one year after his inauguration, Vice President Millard Fillmore took the oath of office July 10 in the House of Representatives.

The inauguration of Franklin Pierce was unique in the fact that the Vice President-elect, William R. King, was not in Washington to be sworn into office, but was on a mission to Cuba and took the oath of office at a plantation on the bella shore Matanzas at the same time President-elect Pierce was being sworn in in Washington. There was no inaugural ball.

The fourth of March, 1857, was a splendid day, and James Buchanan was inaugurated with much pomp and ceremony. After reaching the White House President Buchanan held a public reception and at night attended the inauguration ball, which was held in a building in Judiciary square erected for that purpose.

Abraham Lincoln had a bright, clear day for his first inauguration, but it rained and the streets were wet and muddy when he took his second oath of office. The martyr President went to the capital from Springfield by way of Indianapolis, Columbus, Cleveland, Pittsburg and Philadelphia, and, although he was given receptions all along the way, when he reached Harrisburg, on account of threatened violence, it was thought best to change the plans, and he proceeded to Philadelphia in one of the public cars, and, arriving there at midnight, he entered the New York sleeper and passed through Baltimore undisturbed and arrived in Washington at 6:30 on the morning of February 23. He remained at Willard's hotel until the inauguration day, when President Buchanan called for him, and in an open carriage the party proceeded to the capitol.

In order to avoid threatened violence the President and President-elect in their carriage were preceded by a company of infantry, double files of the district cavalry on either side and infantry and other military organizations following. In the long procession there was a large car of float representing the constitution and the Union, each state being represented by a little girl dressed in white. A battalion of district troops guarded the steps of the Capitol. The ceremony of swearing in the Vice President in the Senate completed the entire party marched to the east portico of the Capitol, where the great scene of swearing in Abraham Lincoln took place.

The Civil war was in progress when Mr. Lincoln was inaugurated for the second time. There were evidences of the war everywhere, and gloom and sadness covered the whole land. The President went to the Capitol early to sign bills, and therefore the parade marched down without him. The procession, however, was noteworthy.

NIP IT IN THE BUD.

First Appearance of Dandruff a Forerunner of Future Baldness.

That such is the case has been conclusively proven by scientific research. Prof. Unna, the noted European skin specialist, declares that dandruff is the burrowed-up cuticle of the scalp, caused by parasites destroying the vitality in the hair bulb. The hair becomes lifeless, and, in time, falls out. This can be prevented.

Newbro's Herpicide kills this dandruff germ, and restores the hair to its natural softness and abundance.

Herpicide is now used by thousands of people—all satisfied that it is the most wonderful hair preparation on the market to-day.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

MUST DISPOSE OF TROLLEY HOLDINGS.

Valley, the Worcester & Webster, the Webster & Dudley, the Springfield and the Berkshire street railways. The decision upholds the ruling of a single justice of the supreme court, from whom the New Haven company appealed on the ground that these trolley companies were held by the consolidated companies of Connecticut.

The decree handed down by the full court today affirms that issued by Judge Rugg of the court, sitting as a single justice last June, which followed the decision of the full court in holding that the New Haven company had no right to control trolley lines. The New Haven company appealed from Judge Rugg's decree, claiming that it did not follow the rescript of the full court, and that its directions were vague. In the decision today the full court states that it does not see how there could be any misunderstanding in the meaning of the original decision or in the decree of Judge Rugg, nor in the duties of the New Haven company in following it.

The decree follows:

"The appeal in this case is from a formal decree entered by a single justice as a result of a rescript of the court. The only question open on this appeal is whether the appeal properly conforms to the rescript. The rescript ordering the decree for the informant was sent May 8, 1908. June 9 the defendant filed a motion setting forth that it had parted with whatever interest in or control of any of the shares of capital stock of any of the street railway corporations mentioned in the information it may have had, except its interest in the shares of the two corporations named, and moved that it be allowed to prove these facts upon the hearing of any motion of the attorney general for a final decree. This was not in the form of a motion for leave to file a supplemental answer, and it set forth no such specific facts as should be set forth if a party wishes to open a case for a new trial by reason of new matters of defense which have arisen since the trial and decision of the issues previously raised —indeed, it does not state that the defendant ever had any interest in the stock in question, but refers only to 'whatever interest or control' it may have had. Such a motion was addressed to the discretion of the court, and the discretion was rightly exercised in denying it.

"The only relief asked for by the informant was an injunction compelling the defendant to comply with the statute by ceasing to hold or control, directly or indirectly, the stock referred to in the information. The decree was entered as of May 8, the date of the rescript, and it applies to the facts as they then appeared on record. If any question ever arises under it, compliance with the decree may be shown by the defendant as well as by proving that it parted with all its interest in the stock before June 23, when the decree was officially entered, as by proving that it parted with it afterwards.

"A decree is always to be construed in reference to the facts stated in the bill and proved at the hearing. For its effect it rests upon the affirmation of the bill, and it has no relation to matters not included in the litigation. The decree in this case is not an attempt to add to the force and effect of the statute a judicial order to restrain and forbid the defendant in its future conduct in regard to matters not made the subject of the attorney general's information, but only to direct and control the defendant in regard to the matters stated and complained of in the information. It recites the main facts established and recited before the court, which are only the matters stated in the information, and states the order of the court for an injunction which requires the defendant to cease to hold the stock referred to, or any of it, on or before the first day of July, 1908.

"Construing the decree in reference to the matter stated in the information and recited in the decree, it is difficult to see how the defendant can be in doubt in regard to the meaning of the order or its own duty in the premises. It was entirely immaterial to designate and describe the defendant more particularly in the decree, either by calling it a corporation existing under the laws of Massachusetts or by calling it a corporation existing under the laws of Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island. We see no possibility of doubt on the part of the defendant in regard to the conditions which might come into existence to constitute a performance of its duty to cease to hold or control, either directly or indirectly, the stocks referred to in the information. The fact that the general language of the statute was used in different clauses of the decree, and that it might seem to include forms of prohibited action which the defendant was not then in a position to take in reference to these stocks, does not render the decree objectionable.

"Decree affirmed."

In commenting today on the decision of the Massachusetts court on the New Haven case United States District Attorney Asa P. French, who has charge of the government suit against the New Haven Company, stated that, while the decision carries out in part what the government has attempted to accomplish, it does not apply to the Boston & Maine, but only to the trolley lines. "The decision of the Massachusetts court will have no effect on the government case," remarked Mr. French.

STOCK NEARLY DISPOSED OF.

Controlling Interest in Trolleys Said to Be Outside Company.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 2.—At the offices of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, here it is found that the decision of the Massachusetts supreme court in the matter of the Massachusetts trolley was anticipated, and it is not regarded as changing in any material aspect the situation. The question which now arises, and which constitutes the essence of the case, is whether or not before legal proceedings the controlling interest in the Massachusetts trolleys, representing many companies in that state and some 500 miles of trackage, has been nearly disposed of.

Since the stockholders' meeting last October, it is ascertained, the controlling common stock has been, with a single exception, sold to persons entirely disconnected with the company, either officially or in any other relationship whatever. The only official connection remaining, it is asserted, is the fact that President Mellen remains one of the trustees of the Investment & Security Company. The New England Navigating Company holds as a creditor certain notes of the Investment & Security Company, but has no other relation to it. The 1,600 shares of common stock are distributed among some 15 or 20 outside holders, while the 10,000 shares of preferred stock are distributed among 790 or 800 shareholders.

TOKENS OF GREAT ESTEEM.

String of Diamonds and Friendship Book Given to Mrs. Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—A string of 35 diamonds and an illumined and embossed friendship book were presented last night to Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt as a token of the esteem of 35 of her friends, prominent society women of Washington. The two gifts were taken to the White House by Miss May Williams and Mrs. Robert Hitt, wife of Congressman Hitt of Pennsylvania, members of the committee which purchased them. They were not presented to Mrs. Roosevelt in person, but handed to an attendant at the White House door. The names of the other donors have not been made public.

While the cost of the string of diamonds is unknown, some estimate of its value may be secured from the knowledge that the contributions ranged from $50 to $100 from each of the 35 donors. The friendship book, measuring eight by ten inches, is bound in cream-colored calfskin, highly embossed, and lined with moire silk. In the centre of the cover Mrs. Roosevelt's monogram "E. K. R." appears in gold. The six pages are of vellum, and on the first page a quotation from "Anthony and Cleopatra" is traced in gold: "Whose virtue and whose general graces speak that which none else can utter." The book was designed by Miss Florence Pike, a teacher in the arts and crafts school.

SURVEY AMENDMENTS ACCEPTED

Conferees on Rivers and Harbors Bill Reach Agreement.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—After two long sessions the conferees on the rivers and harbors bill reached an agreement today. The House accepted about 20 amendments for surveys, which will cost about $100,000. The amendment by Senator Smith of Michigan, providing that surplus waters of the St. Mary's river "shall" be leased to the power companies, was modified so that it now provides that water not necessary for "present or further needs of navigation" shall be leased to the companies.

REV. DANIEL MARCH, D. D.

Death of Pastor Emeritus of First Congregational Church, Woburn.

WOBURN, Mass., March 2.—Daniel March, D. D., a well known New England theologian, and pastor emeritus of the First Congregational Church of this city, died at the home of Deacon Frank H. Richardson today, after an illness of some weeks.

Dr. March was born in Millbury, Mass., in 1816, and graduated from Yale in the class of 1840. He received the degree of master of arts from the Yale Theological School, and that of doctor of divinity from the Western University of Pennsylvania. After serving many years as pastor in Nashua and Philadelphia, he came here in 1876, and has been identified with the local church work ever since. He was the author of a number of theological works. He leaves one son, who resides in Washington.

BREAKS HER OWN RECORD.

Mauretania Cuts Down East-Bound Passage Twenty-five Minutes.

QUEENSTOWN, March 2.—Steamer Mauretania passed Daunt's Rock at 9:47 a. m. today, establishing a new record for the east-bound passage from New York of 4 days, 20 hours and 2 minutes. Her average speed for the run was 25.28 nautical miles an hour.

The Mauretania sailed from New York for Queenstown February 25, and passed the Ambrose channel lightship at 8:45 a. m. The distance for the long east-bound course is 2,924 miles. The best previous record for the east-bound course is 2,934 miles. The best previous record for the east-bound passage was made by the Mauretania on her last previous trip, when she covered the distance in 4 days, 20 hours and 27 minutes, at an average speed of 25.20 nautical miles an hour. Her best day's run for the eastward trip prior to this voyage was 605 nautical miles, but this record was broken in the voyage ended today, when she covered 607 miles from Friday noon to Saturday noon.

WILL EXPIRE WITH SESSION.

Disagreement on Tennessee Coal Merger Reported to Senate.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Seven members of the Senate committee on judiciary signed the report declaring that President Roosevelt without authority of law sanctioned the absorption of the Tennessee Coal & Iron Company by the United States Steel Corporation, and the merger was in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law. Two of the majority of the committee, however, attached individual views, which in a degree minimizes the effect of the declaration. Under an agreement reached in the committee on judiciary yesterday any views submitted have the standing of individual opinions only. Chairman Clark today reported the disagreement in the committee, and soon afterward Senator Culberson presented the views of several members of the committee. These were signed by Senators Nelson, Kittredge and Foraker, Republicans, and Culberson, Bacon, Raynor and Overman, Democrats. The additional views were given by Senator Nelson and Bacon.

From the report signed and submitted today it appears that had it not been for the illness of Senator Bacon, and his absence from the committee yesterday, the report declaring that the President acted without authority of law would have been adopted at the opening of the committee. In any event, Senators Culberson and Kittredge take the position that a majority of the committee had reported that the merger was illegal, and the Department of Justice should proceed against the United States Steel Corporation to dissolve it.

The disagreement on the resolution was placed on the calendar, and will expire with the close of the present session.

OBTAINS HABEAS CORPUS WRIT.

Imprisoned Chicago Attorney Will Explain His Position Friday.

CHICAGO, March 2.—Judge Brentano will hear testimony Friday on a writ of habeas corpus obtained by Charles S. Beattie, an attorney who had been fined $200 and locked up in default of payment, by Municipal Judge Blake. After a controversy with the latter concerning the trial of a case Beattie is said to have applied this remark to the court: "You are no more fit to try a case on that bench than a pig." The fine and incarceration followed.

"The point I raise is this," said Beattie: "When I called Judge Blake a pig he had adjourned court and descended from the bench. By that act he had divested himself of the sacredness which invests the person of the court. He became a private individual, and I had as much right to call him a pig as I have to use that term toward any other individual who deserves it. On this point I stand. I stand there as firmly as the pyramids on their foundations."

NO FORECAST YET FOR INAUGURATION.

the White House, along Pennsylvania avenue to the Capitol, for the inauguration. The management are much perturbed over the possible contingency of women appearing with Merry Widow hats, and, while this form of headgear has not been officially tabooed, the "suggestion" has gone out that women should wear small hats or scarfs, so as not to obstruct the view of those behind them.

For the convenience of the thousands of sightseers, the various places of historical interest in and about the city have been marked by suitable tablets.

"Inauguration day no prediction, but fair the day before" is the weather card today. When the first of the thousands of today's arrivals reached here they were greeted with a drizzling rain and unseasonably high temperature, but the weather bureau held out encouragement for a dispersal of the clouds by tomorrow, and all Washington hopes for a clear, fair day for the ushering in of the new administration. Up at the weather bureau, owing to the uncertainty of weather shifts at this time of the year, no forecast for Thursday was hazarded, but an official prediction will be issued tonight, and in the meantime there is nothing in the reports to indicate that the day will not be fair.

Acceptances of invitations have been received from the following governors, who will participate in the inaugural procession: Braxton B. Comer, Alabama; George L. Lilley, Connecticut; Simeon F. Pennewill, Delaware; James H. Bradin, Idaho; B. F. Carroll, Iowa; Charles S. Deneen, Illinois; Augustus E. Willson, Kentucky; J. T. Saunders, Louisiana; A. L. Crother, Maryland; E. S. GEORGIANS ON THEIR WAY.

Taft Special Leaves for Scene of Inauguration Ceremonies.

MACON, Ga., March 2.—The Taft special, a train carrying 150 Georgians, left here this morning for Washington. The party consists of prominent men and women from this section of the state who will attend the inauguration ceremonies. The train en route will pick up several parties at a number of Georgia towns.

IN FINE SPIRITS AND HEALTH.

Taft Receives Many Calls of Respect from Capitol Visitors.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—With no engagements to begin the day, President-elect Taft anticipated another period of comparative ease and quiet to prepare him for the arduous duties which confront him. Notwithstanding the dearth of previous engagements, callers from the Capitol began to present themselves at the Boardman residence at an early hour. These were rather calls of respect than business or political undertakings.

Mr. Taft contemplated a long walk this afternoon. He continues to be in fine spirits and health.

TO CONTRIBUTE ANNUALLY.

Krupp's Son-in-Law Gives $2,500 to Aeronautic Professorship.

BERLIN, March 2.—Lieutenant Gustave von Bohlen und Halbach, who married a daughter of Herr Krupp, the gunmaker, has contributed $2,500 to the aeronautic professorship recently founded at Goettingen, and has pledged an equal sum every year. The Krupp concern has taken up the subject of air engineering with energy, having organized a section of the construction of guns to be used against air craft. The concern already has two model guns, one for discharging explosive shells and the other throwing a burning projectile.

CURED ITCHING PAINFUL HUMOR

Which had Spread Over Face, Body and Arms—Swellings were as Large as a Dollar—When they Broke, Sores would Not Heal—Suffered 3 Years.

MADE SOUND AND WELL BY 3 SETS OF CUTICURA

"My trouble began about three years ago with little black swellings scattered over my face and neck. They would disappear but they would leave little black scars that would itch at times so I couldn't keep from scratching them. Larger swellings would appear in the same place and they were so painful I could hardly bear it and my clothes would stick to the sores. The first doctor I went to said the disease was scrofula, but the trouble only got worse and spread. By this time it was all over my arms and the upper part of my body in big swellings as large as a dollar. It was so painful that I could not bear to lie on my back at night. The second doctor pronounced my disease inflammation of the lymphatic glands. He stopped the swellings, but when they would break the places would not heal. He tried everything that he could but to no effect. He said I might be cured but it would take a long time. I bought a set of the Cuticura Remedies and used them according to directions and in less than a week some of the places were nearly well. I continued with the Cuticura Remedies until I had used three sets, and now I am sound and well. The disease lasted three years from the time it commenced until I was cured. Before Christmas something broke out on my seven year old brother's hands in the form of large sores. I tried everything I could think of but to no effect until I happened to think of Cuticura and one application cured him. Also, not long ago, my sister got a bad burn on her ankle. I have been using Cuticura on that and it gave her scarcely any trouble. O. L. Wilson, Puryear, Tenn., Feb. 8, 1908."

Warm baths with Cuticura Soap, gentle anointings with Cuticura Ointment and mild doses of Cuticura Pills, afford immediate relief and point to a speedy cure of torturing, disfiguring humors of the skin, scalp and blood of infants, children and adults, when all else fails.

NEW YORK, March 2, Wall Street—The stock market opened irregular, with Amalgamated Copper at 71⅞, American Smelting 83⅝, American Locomotive 52½, Anaconda 41⅞, Atchison 102⅞, Baltimore & Ohio 105, Brooklyn Transit 72⅝, Canadian Pacific 167½, Chesapeake & Ohio 66, Erie first preferred 42½, Great Northern preferred 141, Missouri, Kansas & Texas 40, National Lead 75⅝, New York Central 124½, Northern Pacific 137⅞, Pennsylvania 129⅝, People's Gas 111, Rock Island 23⅝, Reading 125⅝, St. Paul 143¾, Southern Pacific 117⅝, Southern Railway 24¼, Union Pacific 175⅝, United States Steel 45⅝, United States Steel preferred 110⅝, Wabash preferred 45⅝ and Wisconsin Central preferred 87⅝.

11—Room traders took the short side of the market when they detected selling at the higher levels in Reading, Union Pacific, Amalgamated Copper and United States Steel. The resultant decline was increased by the liquidation in Central Leather. Supporting orders were placed after the decline had run well to below yesterday's closing, and there was a sharp upturn. The earlier declines reached 2½ in Central Leather, 3 in the preferred, 1¾ in St. Paul and 1 in Northern Pacific and Reading.

Noon—Money on call, steady, at 2 per cent; prime mercantile paper, 3½ to 4 per cent. During a period of dullness stocks of several small railroads were marked up. Prices held firm when this was going on, and then reacted. Bonds were higher.

EUGENE TOMPKINS'S BEQUESTS.

Large Gifts Made to Family, Old Employes and Charitable Institutions.

By the death of Eugene Tompkins, late proprietor and manager of the Boston Theatre, the Perkins Institution for the Blind in South Boston will come into possession of $550,000. Mr. Tompkins was always interested in the home and annually donated the use of his theatre for its exhibitions. Mr. Tompkins's property amounted to more than $1,000,000 and among his remembrances were varying sums to his old employes at the Boston Theatre and the Academy of Music in New York. Mrs. Tompkins, the widow, receives $50,000 outright and the use of the property during her life, and relatives, friends and family servants also are generously remembered.

Other institutions, to which Mr. Tompkins made bequests, to be paid at the death of his widow, are the Actors' Home, New York, $10,000; Actors' Fund of America, $20,000; Animal Rescue League, Boston, $5,000; Boston Children's Aid Society, $10,000; Boston City Hospital, $10,000; Boston Dispensary, $10,000; Boston Home for Incurables, $5,000; Children's Hospital, Boston, $10,000; Carney Hospital of Boston, $10,000; Home for Aged Couples, Boston, $5,000; Home for Aged Men, Boston, $5,000; Industrial School for Crippled and Deformed Children, Boston, $10,000; New England Home for Little Wanderers, Boston, $25,000; Massachusetts General Hospital, $10,000; Young Men's Christian Union, Boston, $5,000.

Quincy Kilby, who was for 25 years treasurer of the Boston Theatre and was also associated with Mr. Tompkins since the confidential business adviser, is left $25,000. Others receiving personal bequests are Fred E. Bond, assistant manager of the theatre about 10 years; Napier Lothian, orchestra leader there for 25 years; James W. Taylor, custodian of the theatre and master of supernumeraries for 40 years; Edward C. Smith, electrician for 20 years; William Flint, doorkeeper at the Mason Street entrance for 20 years; William S. Harris, advertising agent for 25 years or more; William H. Walsh, property man for 10 years; Eugene Foster, once the head usher and now a ticket taker; William Ford, stage doorkeeper, and Ralph Harris, a ticket taker. The smallest of these gifts is $500.

Mr. Tompkins also left $2,000 each to his steward and father and $5,000 to relatives and friends. The son of Mrs. Tompkins receives $50,000, and Eugene F. Van Dusen, treasurer of the Academy of Music, is remembered substantially.

BEAT SENIOR MIDDLES.

Juniors Win in High School Class Series—Cyclones Sweep the Columbias.

In the third game of the inter-class series at the Rogers High School, Monday, the Juniors defeated the Senior Middles, 12-6. In the first half the shooting of both sides was poor, each making but a single goal. In the second the Juniors ran away from the older boys, and made a total of 10 points to 4 by the Senior Middles. In passing the older team excelled, but their shooting was poor. On the other hand, although the Juniors shot poorly in the first period, they soon found the basket in the second. Clarke, Richards and Hoar played best for the winners. Perkham played a good game for the losers, making all the points scored by his side. The summary:

Senior Middles		Juniors.
Perkham, r. f.		l. b., Hoar
Olney, l. f.		r. b., Clarke
Bryant, c.		c. Richards
Corcoran, r. b.		l. f., Robson
Barrows, Weaver, l. b.

r. f., Fitzsimmons

Baskets—Perkham 3, Clarke 3, Robson, Fitzsimmons. Hoar. Referee—Sparks. Time—Fifteen-minute periods.

The relief team, owing to the cancellation of games, did not play last week. This week the management could obtain the use of the school for only one game. The next game will therefore be with the Taunton High School next week. Then the team will go to Fairhaven to play a return match with the high school of that town. This will probably be the last game of the season for Rogers.

Monday evening the Cyclones overwhelmed the Columbias, 42 to 25. It was not so much a cyclone sweep as was not so much a cyclone sweep as was the first half, which ended 14 to 2 in favor of the Cyclones. In the second the game was quite even and the playing more open. The Cyclones led, 28 to 21, which made the second half a good match in itself. The line-up:

Cyclones		Columbias
Goodman, l. f.		r. b., Beattie
Bryant, r. f.		l. b., Parlow
Clarke, c.		c., Sullivan
Tillotson, l. b.		r. f., Harrington
Knoll, r. b.		l. f., McGowan

Score—Cyclones, 42; Columbias 25. Baskets—Goodman 2, Bryant 3, Clarke 4, Knoll 2, McGowan 4, Harrington 2, Parlow 1, Beattie 2. Free goals—Clarke 2, Knoll 2, McGowan 2, Parlow 1. Referee—Watterson.

The first of the new series of inter-club games for the cup offered by Rev. S. C. Thacher will be played tomorrow by the Calumet and Y. M. C. A. teams.

The Junior Middle boys of the Young Men's Christian Association will have an opportunity Saturday, a team from the Fall River Association. It will be the first of two matches the New Bedford team will play in Fall River later. It is hoped to bring the two Associations a little closer by interclub contests.

Death of Baron Guenseburg.

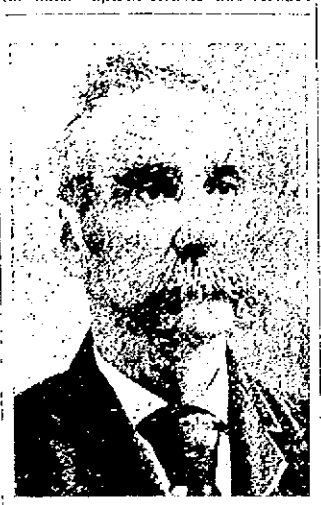

ST PETERSBURG, March 2.—Baron Guenseburg, president of the central committee of the Jewish Colonization Company, died here today, of cancer.

FOR THIRTY-FIVE YEARS.

Captain Arnold of the Conanicut Island Light Has Been in Continuous Service.

Captain Horace W. Arnold, keeper of the Conanicut Island Light at Conanicut Park, celebrated Saturday the completion of 35 years of continual service as light keeper. He has been in various departments of the government service 44 years, starting as assistant keeper of the Beavertail light and leaving at the outbreak of the Civil war to enlist. He went out as a member of Company G, Fourth Rhode Island volunteers, and upon returning at the end of the war, enlisted in the navy. He was later employed in the engineer department, under General G. K. Warren, leaving to enter upon the duties of keeper of the Conanicut Light in Providence river 35 years ago.

While keeper of this light Mr. Arnold nearly lost his life, with the exception of a small son the rest of his family being away at the time. The house attached to the light was carried away by ice early on the morning of March 1, 1875. The ice in breaking up and coming down the river took the house from its foundation and capsizing it landed it some distance away on the flats. Captain Arnold was rescued by tug Reliance, Captain Sutton, in a semi-conscious condition and so badly frozen that it was some time before he could resume his duties. His son Ernest, a small child, who was with him, was also rescued by the Reliance, and although found in about four inches of water, in one of the rooms of the house, had been wrapped in a heavy army coat by his father and escaped being frost bitten.

From the Conimicut Captain Arnold was transferred to Conanicut island, where he is at present. He received his title of captain from the fact that soon after the Civil war he was in charge of schooner Thomas P. Cooper, in the coal carrying trade from Elizabethport to Newport. At that time the freight rate of coal for this trip was $3 per ton. The present rate, with the large 3,600 ton sailing packets and barges, is about 40 cents for the same distance.

These and other interesting data Mr. Arnold narrates in an interesting manner, making a visit to the north light and its keeper a thing to be remembered.

CHILDREN LISTEN TO STORIES.

Three Interesting Tales Told by Mrs. J. A. Richards Before a Large Number at Peoples Library.

At the People's Library Monday afternoon Mrs. James Austin Richards, for a half-hour or so, told stories to a good number of children assembled in the children's room.

The first story, "The Tidy Angel," was of an untidy boy who was told by the "tidy angel" to go out to talk to his brother while she cleaned up his room. The boy protested that he had no brother, but nevertheless went out and asked the squirrel, the robin and the kitten if they were his brothers. They all indignantly disclaimed relationship to such a dirty boy, but when a pig came along he told the boy that they were brothers and invited the lad to roll in the mud and eat potato peels and drink sour milk with him. Thereupon the boy went crying to his mother, who made him neat and tidy. The clean boy then told the tidy angel that he would always be clean if only he need not be the brother of the pig.

The second story concerned Little Timothy and his trials with a pair of shoes given by a fairy godmother. These shoes would always be uncomfortable when their owner was doing wrong and helpful when their owner was doing right.

The third and last story had to do with one Ernest, who lived in a village at the base of a mountain. For many years the villagers were looking for a ruler who resembled the great stone face carved in the mountain above. Little Ernest loved the kind, noble face, greeting it morning and evening, and as years passed he grew so like it that the people chose him as their mighty ruler.

Mrs. Richards has a natural gift for story-telling, holding the attention of the children from the beginning to the end by means of simple, picturesque language and appropriate gestures.

CAPTAIN HUTCHINS APPLIES FOR RETIREMENT.

Captain Hamilton Hutchins, who was detached from his command, battleship Kearsarge, on the eve of the departure of the Atlantic fleet from Gibraltar, applied to the Secretary of the Navy Monday for retirement under the provisions for retirement after 30 years' service in the Act of May 13, 1908. A board of three naval surgeons examined Captain Hutchins at his home in Washington as to his mental and physical condition. The board found that he was capable of signing his application for retirement.

A BIRTHDAY PARTY

Monday evening Bristol hall was the scene of a merry gathering, the occasion being a birthday party given by Mrs. Mary Kochne in honor of her niece, Miss Mary Fiscelin. About 75 couples were present. The hall was decorated with palms and potted plants, which made a pretty picture. The first part of the entertainment consisted of vocal and instrumental music and recitations rendered by several of the guests. Dancing was then in order, Prosper's orchestra furnishing the music and Mr. Kessel the prompting. A grand march preceded the dancing, led by Mr. and Mrs. F. Rogalie. At midnight supper was served, when a large birthday cake was cut. During the evening Miss Fiscelin was the recipient of many gifts.

TEMPORARY INJUNCTION.

Sale of Block Island Steamboats Restrained by the Court.

Grand Jury Reports Indictments Against Grover, and Three Others for Assaults.

At the afternoon session of the superior court, Monday, the argument in Elizabeth E. Underwood et al., executors, vs. Old Colony Railway Company, was completed. There is a formidable array of legal talent in the case. The names of Messrs. Baker, Waterman, Curran and Hunt; Gardner, Pierce & Thornley appear on the record.

In support of the sufficiency of the declaration, Mr. Waterman argued that it is not required that the exact place be specified. It is necessary only to name the city or town; they had done more than this, having named the road. Also, that it is immaterial whether the accident was on the track or not. It was in a highway, and they have a right to ask why they were run down. It might have come from the overhang of the car, or the car might have jumped the track. It makes no difference; plaintiffs can recover in either case.

As to alleging that Mr. Bailey did not "look and listen," Mr. Waterman contended that this was not necessary, in this state. It is immaterial whether he looked and listened or not, when he was on the track far enough from the car to permit its stopping or slowing up, and it did not slow up or stop.

As to the demurrer to plaintiff's allegation that the motorman was incompetent, if it is not material it is mere surplusage, and may not be demurred to. Plaintiffs, however, say it is material, and may be the sole ground for the claim of negligence. Authorities differ on this point.

At the request of defendant time was allowed to file a brief. Plaintiffs wished to try the case March 13, but the assignment was not made.

In the equity petition of Emily F. Burdick, executrix, for the appointment of a new trustee, Mr. Burdick was given a decree appointing William P. Carr.

The grand jury reported four indictments. One was against Albert G. Glover, charging forgery of a check of A. W. Arthur; also against George Nicols, for assault with a knife, and two against John Medeiros for assaults with a dangerous weapon November 7, at Tiverton, one being on John Barbares and the other on Manuel Oliveris.

In the Block Island steamboat matter, Mr. Barney presented a bill in equity, praying for a temporary injunction. Mr. Champlin was associated with Mr. Barney. The matter comes on complaint of the steamboat commissioners, who also appear as citizens and taxpayers of New Shoreham. Plaintiffs allege that the recent "financial town meeting," at which it was voted to dispose of the town's steamboats New Shoreham and Danielson, was called for a purpose not legally authorized, and that to carry out the action there voted may involve the town in long and expensive litigation to recover the boat and in defending multifarious suits for damages for breaking contracts for the boats already legally made. They claim that under the constitution of Rhode Island all the citizens had a right to vote on the matter.

Mr. Barney cited a case from the town of Johnston, where a question of abolishing a school district came up. Judge Stiness decided that the registry voters had a right to vote on the question, even if it affected taxation. The question at bar is not a proposition to impose a tax, or to expend money, and all citizens are interested in retaining this boat and receiving the benefit of its running. There was another case from Johnston in relation to selling the town farm, and the decision was the same.

Mr. Harvey replied. He presented the act of the legislature, authorizing the town to acquire a steamboat, to be held and disposed of like other property of the town, if the taxpayers of the town voted to acquire it. He claimed that this case was not like that of Johnston. It is for the expenditure of money.

Mr. Barney said no property of a town can be disposed of by a financial town meeting.

Mr. Harvey claimed that disposing and constructing go together. Only taxpayers can acquire, and only taxpayers can dispose of the property. There is no difference between exchanging the money of the town for a boat and exchanging the boat of the town for money. The boat has been a continual expense to the town. It concerned the taxpayers by the deficit it made more than did any other town property in the state. The existing contract for the New Shoreham expires July 1, and that for the Danielson is only conditional.

The court asked about the commissioners and it appeared that they were elected by the town, and have authority to run the boat to Newport, Providence or wherever they determine; to establish the rate of fare and make contracts connected with the running of the boats, as they deem proper. Mr. Harvey said they had no right to lease the boat, or make a contract for an extended period; they have no right to act in a way to nullify the will of the taxpayers. As to the arrangement with the Long Island railroad, that company should know the authority of the commissioners and there could be no action for damages. As to the contract with the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, it need not be affected by the sale of the boat. There is many a sale subject to a lease.

The boat has been running at a loss practically ever since it began; it is largely responsible for the deficit of the town. If the taxpayers cannot act, the qualified electors can burden them for all time. The contract with the Long Island railroad guarantees to get the town $50 a day. Mr. Harvey contended that according to law only the taxpayers could buy or sell; the steamboat commissioners were to manage the boat. They say if the boat is sold it will go out of the jurisdiction of the state; it will do this if leased as they have contracted, and would be subject to all sorts of liens and other dangers.

Mr. Barney warmed up and replied to Mr. Harvey. He said there is no question of the right of the town to dispose of the boat. No property of any town can be disposed of by a "financial town meeting." This town is an island and quick access to the mainland is of great importance. Thus a boat is the same as any other town property. It is for the good of all citizens, just as is a town hall or a poor farm. Under the constitution the vote is not restricted to taxpayers alone. Purchase or construction involves expenditure of money. These are the only two questions reserved for taxpayers alone by the constitution; to sell does not involve expenditure and to exclude the other voters from determining this question is usurpation. It is very important to have regular connection with New York.

Why has there been a loss in running the boat? It is because a part of the citizens determined to make it so and have spent from $50,000 to $75,000 to make the boat a failure. Its manage-

SANDY POINT RAGS STILL CHAMPION.

Sandy Point Rags, owned by R. G. Vanderbilt and handled by Dick Duckworth of the Portsmouth Kennels, is still the undefeated champion of old English sheep dogs. At the recent show of the New England Kennel Club in Boston, Rags won the first prize in his class, defeating another dog which telegraphic reports stated was awarded the ribbon. This dog did win a "special," in which Sandy Point Rags had not been entered.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

The Miantonomi Club held its annual meeting Monday evening, with a good attendance. Mr. Anthony Stewart, although disposed to decline a re-election, was unanimously chosen president for the ensuing year, and consented to serve, much to the satisfaction of the members. The following were elected governors for three years: Asa B. Kennan, Harold A. Peckham, William H. Sullivan, William P. Clarke. The board of governors held a meeting later and elected the following additional officers:

Vice President—William S. Greene.
Secretary—William J. Cozzens.
Treasurer—Asa B. Kennan.
House Committee—Harold A. Peckham, Arthur B. Commerford, Asa B. Kennan.
Auditing Committee—John W. Covell, William H. Hammett.

The Iroquois Daughters have elected the following officers:

President—Hope Bliss.
Vice President—Mary Lawton.
Secretary—Pauline Weaver.

THE THAMES RIVER BRIDGE.

New Haven Road Files With War Department Location for New London Draw.

Although the plans for a new drawbridge over the Thames river at New London were filed with the War Department several days ago, details as to location, and type of bridge have not been made public. Vice President Buckland says the layout as yet has not been approved by the government, and the plans presented to the War Department show only the proposed location of the piers and a general outline of a bridge. Mr. Buckland prefers to say nothing further until the War Department has passed upon the plans, because it is possible that important alterations might be suggested by Major Taylor, the engineer in charge at New London.

From New Haven it is learned that President Mellen does not contemplate the erection of a new bridge at once, as the present draw bridge, now used as a single-track structure, is considered safe for the next five years. As to location, the probability is that the new bridge will be placed just north of the one built in 1889, the distance being governed by the disposition of the old bridge.

President Mellen, in a talk with the Business Men's Association of New London, said he was willing to present the old bridge to New London and Groton for highway purposes, and was prepared to move the new location farther up the river.
